"THE FIRE PRINCE"
IS WELL RECEIVEDOperetta By High School Boys' And Girls' Glee Clubs Will Be Repeated
Tonight At 8:15CHORUSES MAIN FEATUREPrincipals Possess Splendid Voices
And Whole Performance Moves
With Great Smoothness

A splendid audience greeted the first performance of "The Fire Prince" the operetta which will be repeated again this evening, by the boys and girls glee clubs of the Rushville high school, at the Graham Annex auditorium.

All the members of the two glee clubs had good voices and showed that the voices had received excellent training. The choruses were one of the main features of the whole performance and aided greatly in the success of the evening.

The operetta was given in two acts the first act being a garden scene at the summer palace of King Grogno, (Fred Lucas) in the land of Pantoufia, and the second act takes place in the ball room at the Spanish embassy.

At the rise of the curtain are seen Ladies Molinda and Kathleen, nieces of the king, the Misses Margaret Giffin and June Lightfoot, with young men and girls each studiously coming a book. Before the rise of the curtain a humming sound is heard which is the pupils studying their history lesson.

The first act centers around Prigio, (Keith Clark) the eldest son of King Grogno, who does not believe in fairies notwithstanding the prevailing belief that a number of very influential ones attended his christening.

The fairies were present on that occasion and bestowed upon him many useful magic gifts. The gifts, through Prigio's indifference, are treated with the utmost neglect, no attempt ever having been made to use them. Prigio's brothers, Alphonso and Enrico (Harrold Clarkson and Arthur Wilson), being of no more than ordinary intelligence, are popular with the nieces of the king, Lady Molinda and Lady Kathleen.

About this time a terrible scourge of heat falls over the land and the Wise Man, (Robert Geraghty, expresses the belief that it is the Fire-drake, which is a monster whose normal temperature is terrific. The king decides that something must be done and his younger sons, Alphonso and Enrico, volunteer to fight him. But the king who wishes to dispose of his eldest son, Prigio, proposes that he fight the Fire-drake. Prigio flatly declines to fight the monster, because of the fact he does not believe in fairies. So Alphonso agrees to go fight the fairy.

A wireless message from Alphonso states that he has been killed by the Fire-drake. Enrico then bravely departs on his perilous mission and it is soon understood that he meets the same fate as his brother.

In the meantime Rosa, the Spanish ambassador's daughter (Miss Marian Lucas) appears on the stage, in a gypsy costume, and immediately makes the acquaintance of Prigio, who is deeply impressed. She leaves immediately, however, as she is engaged for a ball that evening at the embassy and departs somewhat unceremoniously.

When the King learns of the fate of his two younger sons, he immediately disinherits Prigio, and

LOCAL PASTOR TO SPEAKL. E. Brown to Address County
Teachers at Institute Saturday

The regular December Teachers' Institute will be held in the court house on Saturday, at which time the regular institution speakers will be here for their classes. In connection with the regular program, the Rev. L. E. Brown, pastor of the Main Street Christian church, will deliver a short address to the general assembly at the afternoon meeting, beginning at one o'clock.

County Superintendent of schools, B. D. Farthing, stated today that a local speaker would be engaged for each institute session, which is held the third Saturday of each month.

NEGLECT TO MAIL PACKAGES EARLYMany People Are Delaying Sending of Christmas Parcels and Congestion Will ResultSATURDAY, DEC. 23 LAST DAY

People are neglecting to mail Christmas packages early, according to an announcement at the postoffice as the mail has not yet assumed the bulk that usually preceded the holidays for a couple of weeks.

It is the belief that shippers of Christmas packages on short hauls are awaiting the last few days before the 25th, but postal officials are urging early mailing in order to relieve the congestion of the last few days.

From the Rushville office only a few packages have been mailed to California and other distant points. Packages designated as containing Christmas presents, can be labeled on the outside, "Do Not Open Until Christmas," which will insure safe arrival at their destination.

The postoffice department desired to call attention to the fact that because Christmas comes on Monday this year, the usual day before Christmas mailing on short hauls cannot be made, and that all mail should be placed in the mails on Friday of next week, in order to be delivered before Christmas.

SNYDER CHARGED WITH EVADING BOARD BILLOrean Snyder is Released on Bond in Justice Stech's Court— Will Wilhelm ReleasedCIVIL SUIT IS DOCKETED

Orean Snyder was arrested late Wednesday on a warrant filed in Justice Stech's court charging him with evading a board bill. He was released upon $50 bond, and his case will be heard early next week. The prosecuting witness in the case is Margaret Campbell, who alleges that the defendant owes her $11.

In this court late Wednesday, Justice Stech heard the case of the State against Will Wilhelm of near Andersonville, who was charged with passing a school hack while unloading children, and the court found for the defendant. It was the second time that the defendant was arrested on the charge, as the case was dismissed recently for lack of prosecution, and when refilled, the affidavit neglected to allege that the automobiles were on a public highway.

A civil suit has been filed in this court by Arvel Herkless against Elmer May and Kate May, the complaint being for possession of a dwelling house located near the I. & C. power plant. The case has been set for trial December 19, at ten o'clock.

RUSH COUNTY WAS WELL REPRESENTEDMany Township Trustees and County Superintendent Farthing Attend State MeetingCONSIDER SCHOOL REPORTIndiana Association Will Oppose Proposal to Abolish Trustee's
Control of Schools

The three day session of the Indiana State Association of Township Trustees ended this afternoon at the Claypool hotel in Indianapolis, and Rush county was well represented by trustees and by Birney D. Farthing, county school superintendent. Many new trustees from Rush county, as well as the retiring trustees were present for some of the sessions.

The primary purpose of such a meeting was to consider the report of the Indiana educational survey commission, which recommends legislative action to abolish the office of township trustee, insofar as this official has control of township school affairs.

The stand taken by the association in regard to the commission's report was voiced by A. D. Swope of Lebanon, who said, "The association doubtless will oppose the idea. The trustees are not against it because of a desire to save their job, but they stand for a principal. They do not believe a change to the county unit instead of township control over schools would be of any benefit to the school system of the state."

In order to further the interests of the association along constructive lines and to clearly state what the association stands for, the chairman appointed a resolution committee, which was to make a report at the closing session.

In addition to the outline of the things the association stands for, Lew Lewis, trustee of Walker township, said he would advance this idea: If township boundary lines were to be eliminated in the government of schools, the state should go another step in the same direction and remove county lines, supervising the schools with the whole state as a unit.

"I know an agreement never could be reached on such a proposition," Mr. Lewis said, "because wealthy counties like Lake, would not want as much of their money spent in Brown county as is spent within their own boundary lines."

E. E. Ramsey, high school inspector, and W. E. Wagoner of this city assistant inspector, were also on the program for the trustees and each spoke on better schools, with Mr. Continued on Page Four

BABY EXAMINATION
AT CARTHAGE TODAYHealth Hygiene Workers Will Move on to Mays Tonight For Meeting
And Examination FridayBIG CROWDS ARE ATTENDING

The Better Babies conference moved on to Carthage Wednesday night, where the program and motion pictures were given and today the examination of babies was being held at the office of Dr. McNab, in that place.

The meetings at Manilla, which took in all of the babies in Walker township, were well attended, and 24 babies were examined. The work of examining babies was held Wednesday in Arlington, and the lecture on the night before in Arlington attracted 125 people.

Considerable interest is being displayed in each place, and many visitors attend the examination of the babies in the towns.

The contingent of state workers, who are in charge of the Health Hygiene conference, will be in Mays tonight for the evening program, and the examination of babies will be held at Mays all day Friday.

ports From the Township

Three Rushville factories were responsible for swelling the Christmas Seals campaign fund today when a report was received from Miss Helen Seudder, chairman of the factory committee, showing contributions from the Rushville Furniture company, C. E. Francis and company and the Park Furniture company, in which the employees of the three concerns joined.

The total raised to date in the drive to help stamp out tuberculosis amounted to $761.82, the sum of $175.60 being reported today. The bulk of this amount came from the three factories and their employees, amounting to $130.10.

The Innis, Pearce company and their employees will also make a gift to the fund which will boost it materially, it is announced.

The only other contribution above $5.00 was $25.00 from "A Friend". One $5.00 Health Bond and a few purchases of a dollar or more were also reported.

The Seals campaign workers were a bit downhearted this morning but their spirits rose rapidly when the report from the factory committee reached headquarters. Rushville still has a few hundred dollars more to contribute to reach last year's mark but hopes are being held out that it will be passed.

Very encouraging reports are coming from the townships. The Ripley township chairman has sent word that the organization there will go over the top and Anderson township has absorbed its quota of $60.00 and has ordered more Seals and Health Bonds. Anderson township was the banner district outside Rushville last year, raising $89.10. Posey township, which was second to Anderson last year, has sent reassuring word to headquarters that the quota will be passed again this year.

TURN TO THE UNDERWORLDAuthorities Think it May Hold Solution of Shaffer Murder

Newcastle, Ind., Dec. 14—Deputy sheriffs turned to the underworld of Muncie and Indianapolis today in an effort to solve the mystery surrounding the murder of Mr. and Mrs. William Shaffer, whose bodies, with the heads crushed, were found at their home near Middletown Tuesday.

Mrs. Shaffer some time ago sold a house in the Muncie tenderloin to Margaret Schmidt, but the police closed the place before Mrs. Schmidt was able to make payments on it and the sale has been the subject of litigation for months. The theory that the killing may have been the outgrowth of quarrels resulting from the litigation in which friends of both women were involved was advanced and is being run down.

NO TRIAL IN COURT TODAYJury Called For Monday To Sit in False Pretense Trial

No cases were set for trial today in the circuit court, and the case set for Friday which was to require the jury, will be heard without the jury, and jurors were told to report on Monday for a state case, in which Gillespie is charged with false pretense.

Judge Freemont Miller of Franklin was here Wednesday and heard the case of Beulah Addison, et al., against Anna Collins, a complaint to quiet title. The matter was taken under advisement by the special judge in the case.

SOLDIERS BONUS
BILL IS DRAWN UPProvides For Payment of $10 A Month to Every Soldier, Sailor,
Marine Or Nurse In StateTO BE RAISED BY TAXATION

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 14.—A soldier bonus bill for introduction in the state legislature when it convenes next month was officially drawn up today. The bill provides for the payment of $10 a month for every soldier, sailor, marine or nurse in Indiana for every month they served in the world war between April 6 1917 and the date of their discharge the sum of which is not to exceed $500.

The husband or wife, children, mother or father, sister or brother of a dead soldier would receive with preference in the order named, the amount due the deceased.

Those who were discharged without honor, those who did civilian work in service and those who have received compensation in other states, would not be entitled to a bonus.

The bonus would be raised by taxation distributed over a period of three years beginning in 1923.

JOHN H. BROWN, 71,

CorrespondentFUNERAL SATURDAY, 2 P. M.

John H. Brown, age 71 years, a well known resident of Fairview, expired this morning at his home about 10:35 o'clock, death resulting from an illness of a few weeks. The deceased had been totally blind for the past several years.

He was born September 17, 1851 in Union county, but had resided the greater portion of his life in Fairview, where he was well known. For seventeen years he represented the Daily Republican as a correspondent in that vicinity, which position he held until his death.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Augusta Brown, and one daughter, Mrs. Emma Bowles of Mays, and two grandchildren.

The funeral services will be held at the Fairview cemetery church, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock in charge of the Rev. G. F. Powers, with burial in the church cemetery nearby.

The deceased was a member of the Red Men lodge, and belonged to the Christian church.

Train Wrecks Claim 23 Lives in Two States Today

Train wrecks today claimed 23 lives and injured more than 30 persons in Texas and Wisconsin.

Twenty-one were killed or scalded to death and nineteen were injured when a Houston and West Texas passenger train crashed into an engine at Humble Texas.

One man was killed and several injured in a collision between Soo Line passenger and freight trains near Torp Wisconsin. A trainman was killed and several passengers injured when the engine of a Chicago and Northwestern "milk express" jumped the tracks at West Bend, Wisconsin.

Santa Claus' wrinkles were still smiles today.

He had no occasion to be pessimistic because the wonderful response to his appeal continued today when $108.50 was added to the Daily Republican-Salvation Army Christmas fund.

This remarkable boost to the fund, following closely on the heels of an unusual showing Wednesday, was due largely to a contribution of $100.00 from the Elks lodge, which was voted at the regular meeting of the lodge Wednesday evening.

This was the same amount which the Elks gave last year and represents their interest in the effort to spread Christmas cheer in every home in Rushville where it would be absent on Christmas day, if it were not for this fund.

Santa Claus was also cheered today when he took note of the fact that two Sunday school classes had sent checks to help out in his work, indicating that they realized that his business is of great enough importance to merit a gift.

The Kiwanis club voted today to co-operate with the Elks and the Rotary club in doing the actual work of buying and distributing the gifts. The Salvation Army leader, Capt. Samsel, and his workers, will look after the baskets of food which will provide Christmas dinners for many of the poor.

21 KNOWN KILLED IN WEST TEXAS WRECKSeventeen Persons Scalded to Death, 4 Died of Burns and 21 Seriously Injured Near HumblePASSENGER HITS AN ENGINE

Houston, Tex., Dec. 14—Seventeen persons were scalded to death and four died of burns today as a result of a collision of a passenger train on a switch engine on the Houston East and West Texas railroad near Humble. The dead included two unidentified white men and nine negroes.

Twenty one persons were in the hospital here and at Humble seriously burned and additional fatalities were expected.

The crash of the two engines cracked the steam pipe leading to the cylinders of the switch engine and a stream of deadly steam was poured through a window of the first coach, scalding to death a number of occupants. Others were painfully burned, with the two forward cars filled with the stifling scalding steam.

Passengers were helpless as they jammed the exits and found the doors jammed closed by the wreck and windows closed tightly.

Frightened men and women huddled together before the doors at the end of the car farthest from where the burning steam streamed into the cars. They were found in a little group by rescue workers.

The accident occurred, officials believe, when the freight engine drifted to a point where the side track and main line converge after the train crew started to supper.

with his court, takes off to his Castle of Flakenstein, leaving Prigio to his own resources.

Prigio left alone without money, clothing or means of transportation, begins thinking. With the fairy gifts at hand he is clever enough to see no risk in testing them. He puts on the Seven League Boots, Wishing Cape and wishes himself in Glucksberg, the capital city. Seven strides take him there. This closes the first act.

During the whole act, the principal characters were assisted by the splendid choruses. One of the hits of this act was "General Information" sung by Keith Clark and the chorus. Among the other special numbers of this act were "The Fairy Ban", by Beulah Phillips, as the Duchess, "Tra-la-la-la-la-lay," by the King and chorus; "Golden Spain" by Rosa and chorus; "We Leave Your Prigio," chorus, and "If it Be True", the final.

The second act is the ball room at the Spanish embassy. The curtain rises on the conclusion of a sara-bande being danced by guests of the ambassador (Robert Gantner.) The embassy is located in Glucksburg, for which places Prigio is headed. His last stride leaves him in front of the embassy and hearing music, he enters. Here a series of fortunate events bring him into the intimacy with Rosa and when she declares a wish to obtain the horns and tails of the Firedrake, Prigio offers to obtain them and departs for that purpose.

Meanwhile the king has offered a reward for the horns and tail of the Firedrake, a money prize and the hand of Molinda in marriage. This proclamation is published at the ambassador's ball and creates genuine sensation.

Prigio returns with the desired horns and tail, which together with his magic carpet he entrusts to Benson the butler, (LeRoy Edwards). The latter retires with them to the hall where he wishes that he were the lucky man to present the trophies to the King. As he was standing on the Magic Carpet with the horns and tail of the Fire drake under his arms, he was instantly carried away out the open window and to Falkenstein.

This unforeseen event makes it necessary for Prigio to follow at once with the aid of his Seven League Boots he shortly returns on the Magic Carpet accompanied by everybody concerned. He has no difficulty in establishing his claim to the reward, but being betrothed to Rosa, he declines to marry the Ambassador's daughter Molinda. The King requires that Prigio marry his niece or perish on the gallows. Suddenly remembering the unlimited resource of his wishing cap, the clever youth states that he will restore his brothers to life or destroy himself. His father agrees to this solution and Prigio is left alone.

He proceeds to call the fairies who promptly responded. The fairies are Jomila Bradley, Bonnie Jean Moore, Leida Randall, Bonnie Jean Beale and Frances Beale. After some delay caused by the dances, the fairies present Prigio with a quantity of Magic Waters, which are guaranteed to restore animation in the most hopeless case. Prigio departs on his joyful errand and soon returns with Alphonso and Enrico in perfect health.

Of course, the King is overjoyed over the restoration of his two younger sons and lets Prigio marry Rosa, the ambassador's daughter.

During this act the pages, (Wilbur Wolters and Marvin Alexander) provide much amusement, in their attempt to learn to be a butler, and were applauded for an encore. During this act a pastorella dance was given by Elizabeth and Virginia Payne who were very graceful in their movements.

Miss Ruth Shaffer who as Isadora, Queen of Pantoufia, played opposite the King, was exceptionally good in the song "Fairies", sung by her and Fred Lucas. Roger Hammer played the part of Fredric, a Pantoufian officer attached to the Spanish embassy and was devoted to Teresa, friend of Rosa, Emily Mauzy. The Messenger boy from the wireless office was Glen Somerville.

The song hits of the last act were "Dancing Dinah" by Rosa, Prigio and chorus; "The Proclamation", Roderigo and chorus; "You Will Surely Be a Butler," Benson and Pages; "The Shower and Flower", Rosa and chorus; "My Unbelief I Do Repent", Prigio, Rosa, King and chorus.

The costumes for the fairy dance were designed and made by Miss Henrietta Coleman, supervisor of art. The scenery used in the second act, designed and painted by Raymond Gregg, was presented to the Rushville schools by the senior class of 1922. Miss Virginia Lucas was the accompanist and Leslie Davis, the stage director.

The success of the evening, however, is due in a large measure to the untiring efforts of Miss Sarah I. McConnell, who is the music supervisor of the schools of this city.

Laporte—A record for catching liquor law violators is claimed by authorities here, when they had John Koseglowski, said to be a leading liquor vender, behind the bars twelve hours after he sold a pint of moonshine.

The need for many baskets has been found. A number of homes visited show conditions that few would believe existed in Rushville. In one home in particular, where the wife is past sixty years old and suffering with paralysis, and the husband is unable to work because of being compelled to care for her, the suffering is beyond description. The aged couple are living in a shack built mostly of old boxes. There are two small rooms, giving barely enough space for them to sit down. ANNUAL INSTITUTE
IS SET FOR JAN. 2

Program And Premium List Being Completed And Promise Rare Treat For Posey Township

$235 IN PRIZES RAISED

H. M. Widney And Mrs. Roberts. Both Have Practical Knowledge Of Farming, Will Be Speakers

The annual Posey Township Farmers' Institute is to be held in the Christian church at Arlington Jan. 2, 1923.

The program and premium list are nearing completion and both are promising a rare treat for the people of that community.

Mrs. Roberts comes very highly recommended by Purdue University as a resourceful and practical farm woman, living on a farm, putting into practice and experimenting with her theories. At present she is keeping an egg production record for Purdue from her own flock, as her chief interest lies in working out practical problems with poultry.

For several years H. M. Widney has rendered effective service as a farmer's institute speaker. His early life was spent on the farm. When twenty-one years of age he entered the lumber trade in which he engaged for a number of years. He then sold the lumber business and purchased the old Widney homestead on an easy payment plan. As the farm was then depleted in fertility and production, he had to meet the problems of resorting the productiveness of the land and pay off the debt. By means of drainage and the use of soiling crops, barn yard manure and commercial fertilizer, he has succeeded. He planted on this farm an orchard of thirty acres which is now bearing fruit and is an acknowledged success as well as a blessing to that portion of the state where it is located.

Mr. Widney now owns, not only the old homestead, but one of the neighboring farms making a total of 237 acres. He owns a home in St. Joe, but for the last seven years he has resided and worked on the farm. His crops are apples, corn, wheat, oats, barley, alfalfa, clover and soybeans.

As of last year, an attempt is being made to have an evening session preceding the regular institute program. The speakers' name and subject will be announced later.

The sum of $235.00 in merchandise and cash has been pledged with which to finance the premium list. The merchants of Arlington and Rushville, especially the latter, contributed very freely and gladly, for which the institute committee desires to extend its heartfelt thanks and appreciation.

Premiums are to be awarded on the following:

Ten ears and single ear, any color, for local farmers: ten ears and single ear, any color, open to the county; ten ears and single ear, any color, for boys enrolled in Posey township schools; best peck of home grown potatoes, for local farmers, and a boys corn judging contest.

The women's department awards are to be given on cakes, bread, butter, and best dozen of eggs. Also awards are to be offered on work from the Home Economics and Art classes.

Special efforts are being made to interest the boys in the corn judging contest. The county agent, D. D. Ball, is to visit the Arlington school and lecture on matters pertaining to seed corn. Also A. J. Reddick and W. O. Swain, local producers of fancy corn, and licensed judges of ability, are to visit the school instructing and demonstrating to the boys just how to select a seed ear, and how to score it. Mr. Reddick will have personal charge of the judging contest.

W. O. Swain will judge the corn in all classes. Spirited competition is expected.

A big pitch-in dinner will be held in the church basement at the noon hour.

The entire program and premium list are to be published in the near future.

FEAR DESTROYED: Fear thou not; for I am with thee; be not dismayed; for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yet, I will help thee with the right hand of my righteousness.—Isa. 41: 10.

A Forerunner

The attempt to impeach Attorney General Daugherty is a forerunner of the radical demonstrations that will probably distinguish the next Congress. As a friend of the President, he won the enmity of certain reformers for the prominent part he played in winning the nomination for Mr. Harding at Chicago. His use of the injunction against violence in the railroad strike gained him more opponents from the ranks of those who are always seeking to capitalize the real or fancied distress of the working classes. His refusal to make the Department of Justice subject to the orders of others, and to institute certain prosecutions that militant reformers insisted should be pressed, has added to his foes. Mr. Daugherty is energetically fighting back at his attackers, and the plots against him apparently have slight chance of success.

Who Wears The Shoes?

The British government sent home an American consul in England who, it was charged, had been too zealous in obtaining cargoes for American ships. According to published reports a British consul in New York has been guilty of the same offense—that of over zealousness in obtaining American cargoes for British ships—only many times more guilty. It is even charged—and facts are cited—that a conspiracy is in existence, the purpose of which is to drive American ships from the seas. What have our friends in London to say? Or perhaps it makes a difference who wears the shoe.

Budget Government

The aftermath of the war is still responsible for unforeseen expenditures during the fiscal year. It is impossible to anticipate a year in advance the items for which the Treasury is obliged from time to time to submit supplementary estimates. But that condition is rapidly disappearing, and succeeding years will see the annual budget more and more closely predicting the actual receipts and expenditures. It is unfortunate that the first years of our budget law should be through such

Wagoner confining his talk to the problem of school transportation.

Mr. Wagoner stated that the transportation of pupils was the biggest question facing the trustee today. Briefly a review of the school transportation law was taken up and discussed for and against by the inspector and trustees. Some very interesting as well as stubborn problems presented themselves.

Some problems advanced by Mr. Wagoner were: Some children have to get up so early and have to ride so far. What is the solution? Best routing possible for the school hack and best time schedule as can be had was offered.

Again some 15 or 20 counties can be consolidated in the near future. But some places in a good many other counties can not be consolidated. What is the answer? Better roads might help solve the question.

Mr. Wagoner's address was well received by the 300 trustees who attended the session.

FARM OF 274 ACRES IS TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

Largest Land Sale Ever Held in Rush County Will Take Place Near Homer Next Monday

TO BE SOLD IN THREE TRACTS

One of the largest public sales of real estate is advertised for next Monday. It is the estate of the late John J. Veatch of Walker township which has been in prominence in the Rush circuit court for the past three years on account of suit being filed to contest the will of Mr. Veatch. The litigation has now all been settled and on next Monday Dr. Daniel E. Barnett of Homer, who was appointed trustee and executor of the estate, is going to sell at public auction this attractive farm in Walker township, about two miles southeast of Homer, consisting of 274 acres.

This is one of the largest sales of real estate at public auction that has been conducted in Rush county in recent years. The late Mr. Veatch was well known and at one time owned many prominent race horses and when he died left a will disposing of his large estate to many persons, relatives, churches and lodges. The farm will be sold in three tracts, one of 80 acres highly improved, one of 160 acres highly improved and one of 34 acres, and the sale will be conducted on the farm by Col. Dusty Miller at two o'clock P. M. Monday, December the 18.

THREE TEAMS ARE WAY OUT IN FRONT

Wabash, Purdue and DePauw Each Have Fast, Speedy Basketball Combinations This Year

FRANKLIN BEING WATCHED

Many Strong High School Quintets Have Already Appeared—Several Playing in New Gyms

By HEZE CLARK
(Written for United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 14—Enough basketball games have been played on the early season schedule to give an idea of the strength of some Indiana teams although the important ones will come after Jan. 1.

It would seem that Purdue, Wabash and DePauw would again have fast speedy combinations that would be as strong as the best in the west. The Indiana university team, which played both good and bad basketball last year, may prove to be the dark horse college quintet this season. There seems to be better material at Indiana than there was a year ago. Notre Dame in the last few years has not been as strong in basketball as in football.

No college basketball coach is being more closely watched than "Griz" Wagner of Franklin. Wagner during the last two years coached the state high school basketball champion team. Wagner is taking his first shot at college basketball and he has every member of the champion Franklin high school quintet of last season now in Franklin college. In addition he has a number of last years college players from which to form his Baptist net team. Coach Wagner's problem is to find the right combination for he has plenty of material.

Coach Pat Page two weeks ago turned his attention to basketball. Butler college made a great record on the gridiron this year and may make even a better record on the hardwood floor. State Normal seems to have a good combination.

The strength of the Rose Poly Hanover and Earlham teams is still some what unknown. Manchester and Huntington college are going strong in basketball.

Among the high school teams that have already shown they had strong basketball quintets are, Columbus, Vincennes, Bloomington, Bedford, Martinsville, Franklin, Rochester, and both Garfield and Wiley high schools of Terre Haute. There are quite a number of other strong high school teams in the state this year and the race for the prep school championship will be a good one. Many new gymnasiums have been built. Shelbyville, Frankfort, Wiley of Terre Haute and others are playing basketball in new gymnasiums this year.

BABB TO REFEREE IN CONNERSVILLE GAME

A. L. Trester Asked To Send Umpire Here For Friday Night Contest —Officials Saturday Night

DOORS WILL OPEN AT 6:15

Officials for the two week-end basketball games in which the Scarlet aggregation from the Rushville high school will meet Connersville Friday and Milroy on Saturday night, have been decided upon, with one exception.

In the Connersville game Everett Babb of Indianapolis will act as referee, but the umpire was not decided upon, and the two schools notified A. L. Trester, secretary of the Indiana High School Athletic Association to send some capable official here for that purpose, and the two schools will not have any dispute over this official.

For the game with Milroy Saturday night, "Shorty" Morrison of Indianapolis will be the referee, and his assistant as umpire will be Fred A. Bill of Lewisville.

School officials again today wished to call attention to the basketball fans that the doors for each of these games would be opened at 6:15, and that the curtain raiser would begin an hour later. In each case, the two second teams of the opposing schools will figure in the preliminary game.

Greatest Oarsmen in America Will Take Part in Annual Race May 26 on Schuylkill

THREE DAY EVENT IN 1924

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 14—America's greatest oarsmen will compete in the Annual American Henley, which will be held on the Schuylkill River, here, on May 26, next, the American Rowing Association announces.

Walter Hoover, of Duluth, Minn., single scull champion of the world, Hilton A. Belyea, champion single sculler of Canada, and other amateur rowers will participate.

The Henley date, May 26, is the usual one—the last Saturday in May. Plans to enlarge the regatta this season into a three day affair in which every amateur club and every college actively engaged in the sport would be asked to compete have been postponed.

Believing it advisable to acquaint everybody with the plan rather than launch the three day event without sufficient assurance of support, the American Rowing Association decided the three day regatta would be more practicable in 1924.

The Child's cup race will be rowed on the Schuylkill River on April 28. This will be a three-cornered affair with Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania as contestants.

Officers of the American Rowing Association, which will have charge of the regatta are: Thomas B. Reath, University of Pennsylvania; William B. Curtis, Yale; Rudolph Rauch, Princeton and John A. Brown, University of Pennsylvania.

The time and place for the bouts will be decided when the boxer comes East, and the two fighters who will probably meet Dempsey, are Willis and Beckett. Nothing more definite has yet been decided.

Draft Question a Money Matter

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 14—Arguments between the major and the minor leagues over the draft question are too complicated a matter for the ordinary fan to get himself wildly excited about.

One of the easiest ways to explain the differences between the minor and major leagues on the draft is to turn to page 5 of the report of John Farrell, secretary of the national association and find:

Amount paid for assignment of contracts, minors to majors $894,550
Additional amounts due if players are retained 229,850

That is a total of $1,124,400 that the minors drew in one season for sales of players to the major league.

If the draft prevailed, the names of those players would be stuck in a hat, the major league owners would pull them out and give the owners of the player an amount varying from $1,500 to $2,500.

The players that went up to the majors during the last season and the ones that are going up next spring might not have drawn more than $200,000 in the draft.

Ban Johnson, criticizing the refusal of the heading minor leagues to accept the draft said that sending players to them is like throwing the players in bondage. How about the two rookie shortstops the Yanks bought?

Harvard denies emphatically that any animosity is held against Princeton at Cambridge. Nevertheless the opinion prevails at Princeton—"Wait till we lose a game." Harvard hardly can bounce the Tigers off the Crimson football schedule, as long as Princeton persists in beating them.

Various colleges and universities have different ideas about football advertising. Some little teams figure they can get a reputation by being knocked off by big eleven and Cornell proceeds along the line that knocking over all the little ones makes fame.

Bucknell, for instance, played the Navy, Lafayette, Pittsburgh, Lehigh, Georgetown and Rutgers. Cornell finished a season without defeat by playing St. Bonaventure, Niagara, New Hampshire, Colgate, Columbia, Dartmouth, Albright and Penn. There was no way of knowing last season that Colgate and Penn would have strong teams or Vassar might have been added to the schedule.

Howard "Hoddy" Gray, Princeton's star end, probably will be on every All-Eastern team that is picked this season. He undoubtedly was one of the outstanding ends of the whole country. His most spectacular feat was the recovery of a fumble in the Chicago game and a run of forty yards for a touchdown.

Gray is one of the most prominent students at Princeton in addition to being a fine athlete. He holds four of the highest offices opened to an undergraduate at the university.

He is president of the senior class; chairman of the senior council, the governing body of the university; president of the Philadelphia society, the campus "Y", the Varsity Club, the Ivy Club and the Polity Club.

In athletics he is a letter man in football and track.

Rushville Merits Will Play at Knightstown Home

The Rushville Merits will open the season Friday night when they play the Orphan's Home team at Knightstown, and on Saturday night the Merits will play an Independent team at Glenwood.

The Merits will probably line-up with Adams and Keating at forwards; Reade at center; Walker and Smith at guards. Snider and Rankins will be the utility players. The Rushville team would like to book games with any young team in this part of the state, and games may be had by calling or addressing Arthur Walker at the Republican office or Lamoine Smith, Rushville route 6.

From the Rushville sand lots to the managership of a big league baseball club is some jump, but Ownie Bush of Indianapolis has accomplished such a feat.

BOY SCOUTS START MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

National Organization Launches Campaign to Increase Its Membership 25 Percent

MEANS ADDITION OF 100,000

New York, Dec. 2—The National Council of the Boy Scouts of America has entered upon a campaign which aims to increase the scout membership by 100,000, or 25 per cent of the existing membership.

As a part of the plan, it has been decided to open four big scout centers for the training of scout executives.

The scout executive is the salaried official in a big city or community who makes scouting his business and directs the volunteer leadership of the movement. For many years there have been available in different parts of the country various training courses for scoutmasters. The scoutmaster is the volunteer leader who takes charge of a unit called a troop.

Mortimer L. Schiff, who has served as vice-president of the National Council, has recently been appointed international commissioner of the organization. He will devote his time to the international affairs of the Boy Scouts.

Since the beginning of scouting in this country over twelve years ago a total of 4,777 eagle badges, the highest rank in scouting have been issued. Of this number 1,487 have been allotted since the first of the present year.

The remarkable renewal in scout interest has been largely credited to the influence of Schiff, one of the big business men of New York.

CHANGE WILL BE A FACTOR IN BOXING

With Col. Rupert Solo Owner Of Yankees, Tex Rickard Will Have His Way At New Stadium

UNDERSTANDING EXISTS

Promoter Says He Is Figuring On Leonard-Tendler Bout And One In Which Dempsey Will Figure

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Dec. 14—Change in the control of the New York Yankees not only remains the big talk of baseball but it began to be looked upon as a big factor in New York boxing today.

With Colonel Jacob Ruppert as sole owner of the club and its properties it means practically that Tex Rickard will conduct whatever boxing is staged in the new million dollar Yankee stadium.

Rickard as much as said today that Ruppert had given him to understand sometime ago that if the club decided to permit the use of the stadium for boxing, that he was to be in charge.

Col. T. L. Huston, retiring half owner of the club, was said to be in favor of granting the permit to a syndicate composed of several of his personal friends.

Rickard, at least, is proceeding along the line that he will get the privilege at the new park and he is looking to at least two big matches for next summer.

In line with the wishes of Col. Ruppert, Rickard said no weekly boxing exhibitions would be conducted on the grounds. Only a few—of the biggest bouts—possibly two and no more—will be arranged.

Rickard said he is figuring on another Leonard-Tendler fight and one in which Jack Dempsey will be one of the principals. He let it be known that he is not considering Harry Wills as the opponent for the champion.

He denied that he has any kind of a contract or agreement with Dempsey but he has no doubt that he can come to terms easily with the champion when he gets a good proposition for him.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY—a syrup for coughs & colds

The Ladies of the G. A. R. pleasantly surprised Mrs. Ella Higgs at her home in North Jackson street Wednesday, when they appeared at the noon hour with well filled baskets, to remind her of her birthday anniversary. She received many gifts from the members and the following guests, Mrs. Edgar Higgs and children, Mrs. Don Honley and daughter and Miss Nellie Morgan. The afternoon was enjoyed in a social way.

The Sexton Missionary Society met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Weiss Tuesday evening and enjoyed a pitch-in supper. The regular program was carried out following the supper, with Mrs. John Weiss as the leader. The program opened with a song and scripture reading by leader. The Lord's Prayer was offered in unison and the Bible lesson was given, by Miss Mildred Weiss. The members responded to the roll call and offering was taken. Topic for discussion was "Latin America" and a talk was given on the subject by Mrs. Ode Winkler. Special music was provided during the entire evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clark entertained a number of their friends at their home in North Arthur street Wednesday evening, in honor of Mr. Clark's thirty-fifth birthday anniversary. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Myers and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Young and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kennedy, Mrs. Pete Winegard, Mrs. Ellen Smith and daughter Alberta, Miss Alvina Czek, Harry Kennedy Clarence Kennedy, Harry Hoffman, and James Creagor. RED PEPPER FOR COLDS IN CHEST Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known.

Chiropractic FOR GOITRE

Perhaps you have lost some loved one who had been operated on for removal of Goitre. Chiropractic is the only sane and safe way in which to deal with this trouble. It relieves the nerve pressure which causes the Goitre and when the cause is eliminated the effect (Goitre) disappears. If you know some friend who suffers from this distressing disease pass the good word along. Consultation and Spinal Analysis is Free.

EIGHT FILM STARS CALLED IN PROBE

Will be Asked to Divulge Source of Drug Supply, With Chance That Mysteries May be Cleared

TAYLOR AND PHILLIPS CASES

Los Angeles, Dec. 14—Eight of the world's foremost film stars, branded as drug addicts when their names were found in books seized in a New York narcotic raid were called by District Attorney Lee Woolwine to disclose the source of their supply.

With the possibility that the band helped to free Clara Phillips, "hammer slayer" may be unearthed through disclosures of prominent actors and actresses who were the dope peddler's best customers, the district promised a rigid investigation.

"I shall be guided by facts and disclosures of the New York nation wide dope ring with its supposed ramifications in Hollywood in uncovering some evidence in the Wm D. Taylor case," Woolwine said.

"We have no direct evidence that a dope ring was responsible for Taylor's death. That's what we want to find out," he added.

William Dean Taylor was mysteriously murdered here nearly a year ago, and after prominent actresses whose night clothing had been found in his home had been questioned, suspicion finally fastened upon a narcotic peddling gang from Los Angeles' underworld. It is believed that the district attorney's office through questioning of certain film stars now believed to be addicts that the machinery of this gang can be bared.

Ladies! Darken Your Gray Hair

USE GRANDMA'S SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR RECIPE AND NOBODY WILL KNOW

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound", you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

SECRET FILES IN CASE DISAPPEAR

Missing Papers Contain Charges Against William J. Burns, Preferred Before He Was Appointed

THEIR EXISTENCE ADMITTED

Washington, Dec. 14. — Secret files wanted by the prosecution in the Daugherty impeachment proceedings, have mysteriously disappeared from the department of justice, it developed today in the hearing before the house judiciary committee.

The missing papers contained charges by A. P. MacAuley of New York and Toronto against William J. Burns, chief of the secret service. They were sent to Daugherty in 1921 in an attempt to keep him from appointing Burns.

When the fight for the files was renewed today by counsel for Representative Keller, author of the impeachment resolution, Attorney Howland, representing Daugherty, stated the document had disappeared. He had previously admitted the existence of the MacAuley papers and had said he would produce them.

Today's hearing developed an early flare when Attorney Ralston charged that members of congress "who have dared to criticize Daugherty" have been subject to shadowing by secret service operatives.

Attorney Howland hotly denied the charge, declaring it to be utterly "without foundation."

BLOW TO DEFENSE IN HERRIN MINER CASE

Judge Hartwell Rules Farrington, Head of Illinois Union Miners, Can't Tell Story of Gunmen

BOAST OF DEFENSE COUNSEL

Marion, Ill., Dec. 14—Williamson county was alert today in anticipation of spectacular developments in the first Herrin massacre trial.

Heated arguments between opposing attorneys during yesterday's session of court bespoke a furious battle when the court settles into routine of examining witnesses.

The decision of Judge D. T. Hartwell in ruling that Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois United Mine Workers would not be allowed to "tell the history of the gunmen who shot down union miners," as suggested by Defense Counsel A. W. Kerr in his opening statement, was received by the spectators as a strong blow to the defense's case.

Kerr had boasted to the jury that Farrington "knew the history of these men and would tell the jury of many other actions of violence."

After a storm of objections from the ranks of prosecuting attorneys, Hartwell ruled that Farrington would not be allowed to testify on that subject.

Following the burst of oratory yesterday in which State's Attorney Delos Duty and Defense Counsel Kerr delivered their opening statements to the jury, the opposing attorneys entrenched for a long battle of legalities in the examining of witnesses.

WINS PRIZE IN CONTEST

Mrs. O. L. Stevens Awarded Automobile By Indianapolis News

Mrs. O. L. Stevens, living east of Rushville on rural route ten, was awarded an Overland automobile in the Indianapolis News' circulation contest, according to the list of prize winners announced today. Mrs. Stevens won the prize for the district which was composed of Rush and several other counties.

Mrs. Stevens, who has been a solicitor for several months for the Indianapolis News and the Daily Republican, will continue to in that capacity. During the contest, which extended over a period of several weeks Mrs. Stevens worked diligently and her efforts were well repaid, with the announcement that she won the district prize.

AMERICA SPENDING MONEY FOR CHRISTMAS AT A RECORD RATE

America is spending money for Christmas presents at a record breaking rate, according to United Press dispatches from cities in all parts of the country.

Even the years of war prosperity are eclipsed by the rush of buying this season in some towns. Practically all reported the heaviest holiday business since 1918.

The "do your shopping early" campaign is showing results.

Following representative reports: San Francisco: "The volume of our Christmas trade is the largest we ever had," said C. W. Steins, manager of the Emporium. "People are buying practical gifts."

Pittsburg: Kuffman Kuffman, and Baer said buying so far was 30 to 50 per cent heavier than last year. Two to ten dollar articles of wearing apparel are in demand. Buffalo. — Household furnishings and clothing are first in demand, with jewelry and luxuries a close second, in the most prosperous year since the war.

Columbus, Ohio. — "Most prosperous Christmas since the war," said Fred Lazarus, owner of one of the biggest stores. "Useful goods are being bought chiefly."

Washington. — Novelty buying shows a big increase over the last two years in Christmas trade boom here, according to all stores.

Detroit. — "This is the best Christmas we ever had—before or after the war," said H. L. Ware, general manager of one of the biggest department stores.

St. Louis. — Christmas buyers in greater number than at any time since the war, are asking for ornamental and artistic furnishings where as most of the purchases have been practical gifts heretofore, said Stix, Baer and Fuller.

Denver. — Practical gifts of trade is running about the same as 1921, said Lucian York, manager of M. Richard Brothers. "People for the most part are buying necessities."

Portland. — The public is buying less expensive and more utilitarian gifts and the volume is much larger than last year with money plentiful Portland merchants said.

New York. — Lord and Taylors stated the Christmas trade is greatly increased, with more sales and more money being spent on each article.

Kansas City. — The greatest volume of business of any year since the war was reported by Kansas City merchants. Wearing apparel dominated the Christmas sales.

Oklahoma City. — Frenzied buying was reported by business houses in Oklahoma City with radio and mechanical toys the rage.

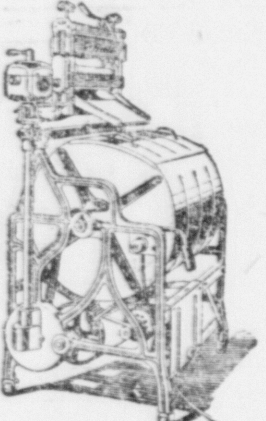

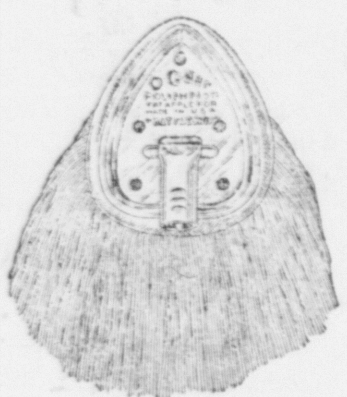

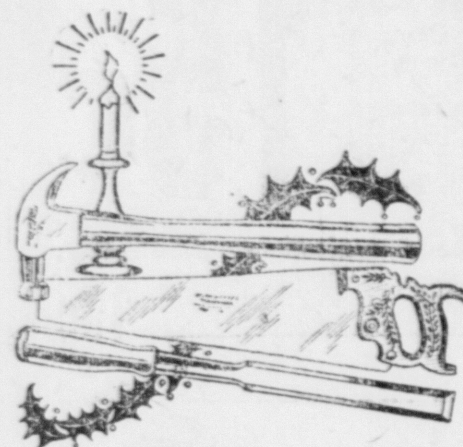

Cleveland. — Advertising managers for department stores here say buying this year is the heaviest since the war ended. Toys are leading in the sales, they said.

LIQUOR CASES IN CONGESTED SHAPE

Federal Courts Throughout The County Are Tied Up With Many Cases Pending Trial

CONGRESS MAY INTERVENE

President Harding is Expected to Appear Before Congress and Seek Correction of Laws

By PAUL R. MALLON
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Washington Dec. 13—The extreme congestion of prohibition cases pending in American courts—enabling bootleggers to continue illicit operations indefinitely—will be placed before congress, it was learned today.

President Harding now expects to present in his formal message opening the regular session next week some of the startling facts on the situation which have been furnished him by the department of justice.

These facts, obtained by the United Press from the justice department are:

1—There are twenty thousand prohibition cases now pending in federal courts of the country with more piling up all the time.

2—This is twice as many as at this time last year.

3—Despite the order of Attorney General Daugherty to speed prosecutions with all celerity it appears probable that some change of system must be found.

The latest figures compiled accurately are those of June 30, 1922 when 16,713 criminal and 2,694 civil prohibition suits were pending. They compare with July 1, 1921, when 10,472 criminal and 2,074 civil suits were on the dockets.

On the basis of these figures, authorities of the department now estimate that the number will reach 20,000 with further increases every day.

With a continuance of this situation in a few years it will be practically impossible to bring a bootlegger to justice within a number of years—and perhaps a life time—after he has been arrested and released on bond.

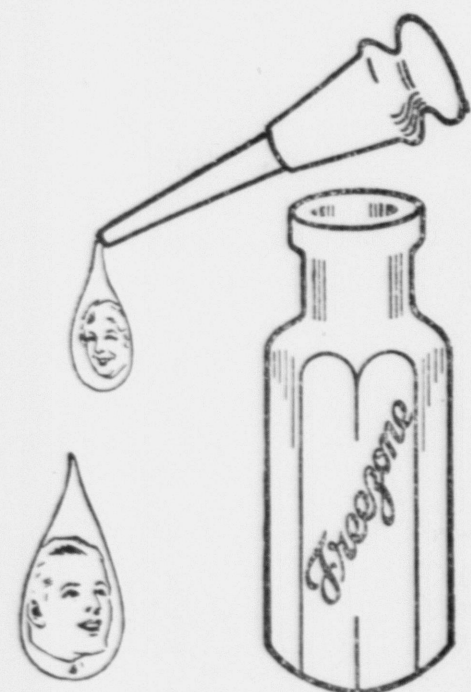

Justice department officials are cognizant of the fact that this situation has encouraged bootleggers to resume their operations immediately after they are arrested and released. Some cases have been reported where a bootlegger has been arrested as many as three times and had not yet been forced to trial for any of the charges.

Some bootleggers have been able to continue their pending cases indefinitely, it was stated.

There is a possibility that this situation will result in some attempted legislation in this session of congress.

ADVISE TEACHING SEX TO PARENTS

Chicago School Board Will Hold Night Schools in Sex Hygiene for Parents of Children

TO DISCUSS MORAL PROBLEMS

Parents Will in Turn Convey to Their Children the Solution of Modern Moral Questions

Chicago, Dec. 14—Sex instruction for parents, not children, is the solution to the modern morals problem.

The Chicago school board, with this idea in mind, will hold night schools in morality and sex hygiene for the mothers and fathers of school children.

Several trustees of the board of education will conduct the night classes and carry to the parents the problems of sex hygiene, which they in turn are expected to convey to their children through individual instruction in the home.

Sex matters cannot be taught properly to school children except by their parents, Dr. Boleslaus Klarkowski, trustee of the school board and father of the plan, declared.

"Sex instruction should begin at home and not at school," said Klarkowski.

The night classes will be conducted in fifty different community centers. Members of the board who will direct the sex lectures include Dr. Klarkowski, Dr. John Dill Robertson and Dr. Sadie Bay Adair.

The teachings will include frank discussions of the younger generation's morals, according to Dr. Klarkowski.

"Parents will be taught to show their children the real meaning of sex, and to bring them up in an atmosphere that will compel right living," he said.

"Instead of talking about moral qualities, parents should see that their children's lives are first dominated by a spirit of right living in the home.

"Many parents try to frighten their children into righteousness with threats of the dire results of sex indiscretions.

"The child should be taught the meaning of true love, which comes from self control."

FUNERAL OF CHARLES WILSON

The funeral services of Charles Wilson, who expired at his home in Cincinnati, Ohio, Tuesday, will be held at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Wilson, 206 East Tenth street, Friday afternoon at two o'clock and burial will take place in the East Hill cemetery. The Rev E. G. McKibben, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church will have charge of the services. The body will arrive in this city at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon and will be taken to Mrs. Wilson's home.

SCHOOL OF MARRIAGE

Cleveland O., Dec. 14—A school of marriage has just been founded in Cleveland.

Its director, Mrs. Jessie A. Foulk, is a social worker.

She seeks to educate young men and women in the art of marrying happily and to assist those whose marriages appear to be mistakes, "to make the best of it."

She calls her school the bureau of domestic happiness.

According to Mrs. Foulk, 90 percent of the marriages in Cleveland are unhappy.

She makes this statement after 20 years' experience in dealing with married people as a social worker.

"I know that this is true," she said.

"Of course there are some husbands and wives who will not admit it. They lead miserable existences in their homes quarrelling and bickering continually and at the same time trying to make others believe they are happy.

"But in their hearts they know they have grown to hate each other—it is merely a case of toleration. They know their love has died and their marriage has become a mockery.

"I am convinced all this unhappiness is unnecessary. I firmly believe that the cause of suffering and discontent and discord in marriage is simply a lack of understanding of what marriage is—or, rather, what it should and can be.

Mrs. Foulk asserted that most unhappy marriages are caused because young people are left to stumble upon love blindly.

She gives the following advice:—Don't permit moonlight and kisses to select your husband or wife. Weigh his or her faults and compare the result with the good points.

Don't turn your children out into the world without telling them the seriousness of marriage.

Have an ideal. Don't choose any one person as your ideal, but select the qualities which the one you marry must have. Be sure that you realize just what marriage will mean. And hold to your ideal.

"When a man understands his wife," she concluded, "and a wife understands her husband, divorce will become unnecessary.

East St. Louis, Ill.—"Lock me up Judge. I'd rather spend my time in the penitentiary than with my wife," M. B. Gebble, Louisville, Ky., pleaded in court here when arraigned on the charge of stealing and transporting automobiles. He blamed his wife's "extravagances" for his transgressions.

Covington, Ky.—"I'm too busy to come to court, how'd it be to fine me over the phone," said Edward Ennis to Judge Manson. "I disturbed the peace all right." "Fifty dollars and costs," said the Judge and Ennis mailed him a check.

ARMENIAN LOSS WILL REACH $118,000,000

Smyrna The Wealthiest Armenian Community in World is Now Home of Suddenly Poor

MILLIONAIRES PENNILESS

Athens, (By Mail to U. P.)—America accustomed to the overnight production of millionaires can now look to the other side of the world and see the process reversed.

Poverty in place of riches offers even greater contrasts than does the exchange of penury for wealth. Smyrna, the wealthiest Armenian community in the world, according to the report of the Bishop of Smyrna is the new home of the suddenly poor.

Twenty former millionaires are now penniless. The income of eight thousand Armenian families, estimated at $7,500,000 yearly is wiped out.

The total loss of the Armenian community will reach $118,000,000, according to the report, and with this initial loss goes the community in which it was built up and almost every chance of recouping. About half this amount represents real and personal property.

Landowners, textile importers and exporters of raisins, figs, carpets, cereals and opium are the heaviest losers.

Armenians of great wealth were murdered and their wealth looted. Figures on the number killed are now placed at four thousand, but the number of names listed as missing or as "prisoners" doubles that figure. Of the "missing" fifteen hundred are women.

American Farm Bureau Federation Gives Wool Growers Real Service

As a result of a meeting of wool growers called by President Howard of the American Farm Bureau Federation in the fall of 1920 for the purpose of considering improved methods of marketing wool, a permanent marketing committee was named, consisting of James N. McBride, Lansing, Mich.; E. L. Moody, Rushville, New York; F. L. Fitch, Linneus, Mo.; V. G. Warner, Bloomfield, Iowa; and J. E. Boog-Scott, Coleman, Texas.

This committee recommended that the American Farm Bureau Federation appoint a director to look after the wool marketing problems of the country in co-ordination the various wool pools. On February 1, 1921, C. J. Fawcett took over the department, dividing his time equally between the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Wool Warehouse and Storage Company, a grower's selling agency located in Chicago, which has pioneered in the co-operative method of marketing wool.

Since the creation of the department, sixteen organization meetings have been held in sixteen states, and eighteen states used the wool pool in marketing the 1921 clip, or pooled such portions of the state's production as was controlled by their organization. The fundamental principle underlying the direct from the grower to the consumer method of marketing is to make use of established farm bureaus for collecting products and shipping to concentration points economically located. Logical concentration points which have been recommended are Chicago, Ill.; Houston, Texas; Columbus, Ohio; Wheeling, West Va.; Lansing, Mich.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Portland, Ore. These concentration points are to be in charge of efficient sales agencies with well established reputations in the wool trade, who are completely divorced from buying or speculating in wool.

Continuing in absolute control of the wool until actually sold directly to the mills and thus saving a greater portion of the consumer's dollar for the grower, eighteen states are marketing co-operatively 27,093,000 pounds of wool from eight concentration points. More than 40,000,000 pounds of wool have been pooled altogether.

One of the main obstacles has been that wool growers have not had the proper support of bankers and the Federal Reserve System in financing their wool for long-time holding. Wool is sheared from the sheep in a very short time, but is marketed to mill consumption throughout the whole year; therefore it must be concentrated in large graded lines, as recognized by the American woolen mills, which requires warehousing facilities on a broad scale.

In a legislative way, the various pool grower's organizations are using the office of the American Farm Bureau Federation as an avenue through which to work and unify their efforts in securing legislation that will protect their best interests, such as Truth-in-Fabric and permanent tariff. As a result of the Emergency Tariff, importations of foreign wool have decreased from an average of 45,000,000 pounds a month, from January, 1921, to May 27, 1921, to about 12,000,000 pounds per month; a decrease of about 75 per cent in importations, while the consumption of domestic wool has increased approximately 100 per cent over the same period in 1920.

DESERTED VILLAGES CONFRONT THE TURKS

Eastern Thrace Resembles An Enchanted Country Which Suddenly Lost its Inhabitants

TURK POPULATION REMAINS

By EDWARD J. BING
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
Adrianople (By Mail to United Press)—Eastern Thrace resembles an enchanted country which, by a magic word from some sinister chief of the underworld, suddenly lost its inhabitants while their dwellings were spared to serve as such witnesses of a once flourishing life which is now but a memory of the past.

Here and there a burning village, flaming like a huge torch, recalls with particular vigor the century old hatred and passion which divided the population for this unfortunate country into two hostile camps. The landscape stretching along both sides of the moving train is dotted with completely deserted villages. The Turkish population, naturally, remains in the country, beflagging their homes in the expectancy of the arrival of the Turkish national gendarmes.

As for the Greek civilians, they carried out an exodus the like of which is rare in World history. The assurances of the Allied and Turkish authorities that the Greek population may safely stay in the country, are of no avail. The unfortunate refugees remember the systematic destruction of Western Asia Minor.

M. E. MISSIONARIES ARE ACTIVE IN BRAZIL

All of Central and Southern Brazil Now is Covered With Network of Methodist Missions

HAVE CATHOLIC OPPOSITION

Rio de Janeiro, (By Mail to U. P.)—Protestant missionaries, chiefly those of the Methodist Church South of the United States and of the Episcopal Church, are making strong inroads into one of the greatest strongholds of the Catholic church—Brazil.

This is the opinion of leading Methodist missionaries in statements to the United Press.

All of Central and Southern Brazil now is covered with a network of Methodist missions and despite strong opposition of the Catholics, many converts are being made.

The struggle between the two factions came to the front during the recent patriotic exercises in connection with the centenary of the Independence of Brazil.

In Porto Alegre, the seat of the Methodist activities in Southern Brazil, the Protestants won a point when the governor of the state, Dr. Borges de Medeiros, overruled a protest of the Catholics against the Methodist proposal for an open air celebration of Methodist converts.

100 WAYS To Make Money

By BILLY WINNER

If I Were a Farmer—

I WOULD find a ready market for my used implements. With the money I would get from selling equipment I could not use, I would buy, at a saving, the tools and machinery I really needed.

Other farmers would need a plow or harrow or tiller or tractor or some other farm implement that I might have to sell. On the other hand, they would have a planter or a harvester or a wagon that I would want.

I would find the farmer who wanted what I had, as well as the men who had what I wanted, through The Daily Republican Want Ads.

Think of the money I could save by this trading—this buying and selling at a profit.

Daily Republican Want Ads would be as profitable for me to use as for other farmers. And other farmers are using them now with satisfaction.

When Christmas Comes

WHEN December snows appear, when the nights are crisp and clear, chilly do the north winds blow and we walk on crunchy snow, gazing at a wintry moon—Christmas time is coming soon!

When the stores are trimmed in green with poinsettias in between, on the shelves are books and toys, dolls and drums for girls and boys; tinkling sounds the glockenspiel and you hear sweet laughter's peal, or the tin horns' trumpet blast—Christmas time is coming fast!

When the house smells—oh, so good, mother's cooking wondrous food, glorious odors floating by, spice and plums are stirred in pie. In the morning when you wake—sniff the air—that's chocolate cake! Ring, ring, ring! the door bell's chime, postman says: "It's Christmas time!"

When you shop and sew and hurry, loving all the bustle. Scurry quick for hiding place lest she guess it from your face that this bulky box contains mother's gift you've made with pains. When you've hickory nuts to crack, trips to make to town and back, Yuletide crinkles in the air—Merry Christmas everywhere!

Then at length comes Christmas eve, Mother mine can you believe that tomorrow is the time, happy cause of all my rhyme? Wreaths and greens and stockings hung, answering bell that's rung and rung. Off to bed—a little sleep—seems a moment, then you peep, fling the covers quick away. Yes! at last it's Christmas Day!—Grit.

A HINT TO MEN

WHEN she tells you she doesn't want you to bother about giving her a Christmas present don't pay any attention. You know yourself how hurt you would be if she didn't get you one of those ties about which you could boast to your men friends that "you had to wear it once just so the little girl's feelings wouldn't be hurt." And you know, and they know, that you want to let the world know that the "little girl" struggled with the other women to get to the center of the tie counter so she could pick out something for you in her sweet and loving ignorance.

The Man of The Hour

Christmas in the Country

by Martha B. Thomas

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

IF YOU are fortunate enough to live in the country, then you are all right. If you are unfortunate enough to live in the city, then you'll have to pretend for a little while that you are in the country. There is nothing to equal it at Christmas-time. Let me tell you about it.

A week before Christmas you scurry around and find as many big bags as you can—burlap bags that probably came filled with grain. Then you buckle up your arctics, draw on your mittens, wind a muffler around your throat, make sure your ears are protected, and start for the woods. Under the snow are the green fingers of ground pine, or crow's foot. Yards and yards of it come up when you pull. It looks as fresh and contented as though it grew in a comfortable conservatory, instead of cuddling under a frozen blanket. You stuff great quantities of this delightful Christmas trimming into the bags, and you are sure that the woods in winter are much superior than at any other time. Then you come home with your fragrant bags slung over your shoulders and the most amazing appetite. You probably eat a pile of pancakes and maple sirup high as a pagoda!

Then think of the string, the scissors, the aprons and the fun of making wreaths! The whole family devotes an entire afternoon to it, and get into friendly squabbles about the length, breadth and thickness of their respective products. Everyone is perfectly sure that none can equal his!

And we have said nothing at all about driving four miles back in the hills to buy the largest turkey that ever graced a platter; and how there was no room for anybody else when the prodigious bird was landed in the wagon, and how the head of the kitchen declared she never could get him in the oven, but seemed very pleased at his noble appearance!

And pies! Bless us, the P-I-E-S! Not your thin, anaemic characters, but thick, round succulent beauties that make your nose sniff as far as the front of the house. I have known the noses of small boys to become almost permanently wrinkled from the constant exercise thus stimulated by the aroma of pumpkin pies. It is a dangerous period, this time of cooking and baking, if you are accustomed to maintaining a solemn expression! I warn you to keep away from country houses if you are fond of keeping your countenance intact! Then, of course, a Christmas tree has to be found. This is even more fun than going after greens. A rope, an ax with a responsible edge that understands the duty required of it, and as many people as you can muster to take part in the expedition. Such laughing, such stumbling, such falling down of persons who forget that feet need to be wary of running vines and dead briars, such mirth over the young man who unwittingly winds himself up in a bramble bush and has to be uncoiled. And best of all, the terrible arguments about selecting the right tree. There is no fun like this.

And if on Christmas day you don't wish for a stomach as big as a blimp, then you are not the person I thought you!

Christmas in the country? Well... rather!

Dressing.

Three-quarters cut sugar, ½ cup pineapple juice, juice of one lemon, 1 heaping teaspoonful flour, 2 eggs, well beaten. Cook all together until it thickens. When cool and ready to serve add ½ pint of whipped cream and spread on top of salad which has been placed on lettuce leaves.

CHRISTMAS COMES

Everybody, Especially Parents. Know What It Is.

Look Ahead and Save for Months to Provide Pleasure and Happiness for Kiddies.

YOU know what Christmas is, says Eugene Wood, in the Delinquent. In a manner of speaking, it is a kind of Sunday. Six days of the week the ideal set before you is to have the alarm clock wake you; to gobble down your breakfast before you are thoroughly roused; to rush to the shop and get your overalls on before the whistle gets done blowing or to be docketed an hour's time; to work like a nailer till noon, when you look into your dinner-pail to see what the old lady has put up there for you, and warm your coffee on the steampipe; to begrudge the time for that luncheon; to lick into your work again till six o'clock, with the foreman sauntering up and down, watching that you don't take too many drinks of water, or get a chip in your eye too often, or gas too much with the man next you; to get home so tired that you fall asleep reading the newspaper after supper—the same thing over again tomorrow and the next day and the next day and the next day, all your life long. That's business.

But Christmas comes along. You tell your little ones that awful whopper about Santa Claus and his reindeer, and they, to whom you are the pattern of truthfulness, stand and listen to you with their jaws hanging loose and their eyes looking like hard-boiled eggs with the shells off. And the older ones aid and abet you in the deceit, and help the little ones compose their sprawling letter to old Santa, asking for dolls and skates, and choo-choo cars and all such extravagances, when you ought to be saving up your money against a rainy day. And you skimp yourself of necessary food to buy these follies, and sit up nights wasting your strength for the next day (which really doesn't belong to you, since your boss buys it and pays for it), and when 11 o'clock, Christmas eve, comes, and you get down from the chair, having hung up the last gilt ball or glass peacock, you are so tucked out you can hardly stand. But you turn out the gas and light the candles to see how pretty it all looks, and your wife says: "Won't she be tickled at this! And won't he jump for joy when he sees that!" and you put your arm around her, and the twinkling candles swim before your sight, and your throat chime of chokes you.

The Legend of Christmas

(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

THEY say that on that first, strange Christmas Night, So dazzling was the radiance of the Light, That sun and moon and stars leaped in the sky, And danced in ecstasy. The silly sleep fled, scampering in dismay, Yet stayed their foolish fleeing, so they say, To kneel in adoration and in prayer. And peace was everywhere.

The crooked stump stood straight, The legend tells, And held forth leafy arms; and tiny bells, Wee, starry blossoms, gemmed the living green. No withered thing was seen. The lion and the lamb watched side by side, Sharing the wonders of that Christmastide, The air was rich with perfume, sweet with song. The cock crowed all night long.

And every Christmas Eve, so runs the tale, In field and forest, mountain-top and vale, The blessed fairies guard, that over all No evil may befall. They say that angels hover all the night, Close to the listening earth; and when the light Of Christmas morning heralds the glad day, They fold their wings and pray.

You never saw these wonders? No, nor I! Only the pure and childlike may descry The tiny fairies flitting in the grass, And speak them as they pass. Guiltless of guile, from greed and envy free— Oh! very like the Christ-Child must you be, To hear a blessed angel when he sings, Or feel the brush of wings. —Vilda Sauvage Owens in New York Times.

Almond Cake.

Cream ¼ cup butter, add gradually ½ cup sugar, beating constantly. Add 4 egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon-colored, ¼ cup milk, ¾ cup flour mixed and sifted with 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder. Beat thoroughly, filling small paper cases two-thirds full of mixture. Sprinkle with shredded almonds and powdered sugar, bake in moderate oven until delicately browned. Serve in paper cases.

Peace on the Hearth

(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

THE Christmas bells were making their glad announcement again, but Toby Fowler was not in sympathy with them. "Peace on earth!" said he, "What peace have I on earth?" It wasn't that his worldly affairs troubled him, but a man may have a good job and a sum in the savings bank and yet find no peace in his house, and this it was that dimmed Mr. Fowler's holiday season and made its gladness clash in his ears, there was no peace upon his hearth.

And, as a troubled home is like a rolled spring, or a splinter in the hand, sending on its turbid disturbance or its pain, so there was no peace in his world, upon his earth.

The blame seemed to point to Mrs. Fowler, as though the difficulty might be in her disposition or her indisposition. There is a natural discontent that nothing can cure, a fault-finding ambition that nothing can satisfy, an ingratitude that never is thankful, a nagging nature that is never pleased, and his wife appeared to be possessed of all these in the estimation of Tobias.

But the root of the trouble lay deeper than the man's understanding of it. It was a lonely house. It was a silent house. It was an orderly house. There was no child in it. And, as many discoveries and cures have been accidental, so Mr. Fowler blundered upon the remedy for his troubles rather than devised it. For it was for his own comfort rather than with the hope of stilling the home tempests that he brought in a lovely little boy on Christmas day and announced that he had adopted him.

He had been too uncertain of approval in the matter to have any conference about it first at home, but, after her first expressions of surprise, his wife did not leave him long in doubt, for the child found a place in her arms as one who belonged there. Not only to him, Mr. Fowler felt, but to them a child had been given.

It is amazing what solutions of trouble a little child can bring, what response meets its dependent claims upon love, what joy ministers to its development, what peace is felt even amid its clamors for our self-forgetfulness! With a happy satisfaction in the midst of all its new cares peace had come to Mr. Fowler's hearth and to his earth.

"Santa Claus," From Dutch.

"Santa Claus" is derived from the Dutch for St. Nicholas, patron saint of Christmas.

COMMUNITY TREES

Public Celebration Is Gaining in Small Cities and Towns.

Plan Affords More General Enjoyment and Observance of the Yuletide Season.

THE Christmas tree has long been regarded the symbol of Christmas. Many families, especially where there are children, would feel that Christmas was incomplete without a tree decorated with tinsel and candles. However, writes A. H. Pulver in the American Agriculturist, a new idea in regard to such trees seems to be creeping in, and that is the community Christmas tree, which is set up outdoors or in a public building where all people, both rich and poor can admire and enjoy it, and it seems that this tree more truly reflects the unselfish spirit of Christmas.

The movement had its beginning in New York city, but regardless of its origin it is spreading rapidly, especially to the small cities and towns, where it serves to bring all people together and to develop a community spirit. In one city the tree has become a fixed annual event, and each year a large Norway spruce sometimes 50 feet high is brought to the public square where it is set up and decorated with colored electric bulbs, flags and other ornaments. For a few days preceding Christmas the bulbs are lighted, causing light to shine from a hundred or more places, and on the day before Christmas a Santa Claus with a pack of toys and candy, drives from home to home distributing joy to the children. On Christmas eve the children and parents gather around the tree and sing Christmas carols, winding up with our national anthem. Other towns vary the program somewhat, some of them having the tree in a public building where a Christmas party is held and Santa Claus gives out toys and candy to the children.

It is possible for those who own woodlands or have woodlots containing the right variety of trees to increase their income by thinning out a number of trees each year for the Christmas market. The removal of such trees is generally beneficial to the woodlot, as it allows those trees remaining a better chance for development. In replanting forests this fact might be kept in mind and young trees thinned out as they grow up. It is customary to plant about 1,200 trees per acre, but when they mature there is only room for about 200 or 300, which means that nearly two-thirds will be removed.

Tell Us About Dem Reindeers

The Judge's Christmas Sentence

By F. H. Sweet

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

HE judge leaned forward a little, his face, which had been growing more severe through the trial, now very stern.

"Have you anything to say why I should not pronounce sentence—the severest under the law?" he shot out.

The prisoner moistened his lips. "You and I went to school together, judge," he reminded, weakly.

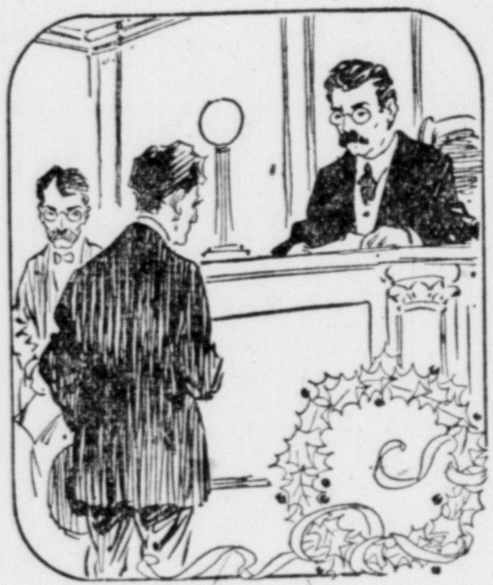

The judge's face did not relax. He waited.

"And we—we—" The man quailed under the eyes fixed upon him, and did not end the sentence.

"You were about to say, loved the same girl," the judge finished. "You won her, and she died under your neglect and abuse. I think you started to say something without due thought. But we will let that pass, and the school. You are up for this crime now, and we will judge you by it alone, uninfluenced. Have you anything to say, beyond your lawyer's plea?"

"No," sullenly.

"You have defrauded women and children through the mail, changing

"Have You Anything to Say?"

your name and going from postoffice to postoffice. So it has been impossible to locate the victims. You could not do it yourself, I suppose."

He took off his glasses, wiped them with his handkerchief, placed the handkerchief in his pocket and the glasses on his nose. Then he looked down again at the prisoner.

But he was completely changed. The severity was gone from his face. There was a twinkle in his eyes. The judicial voice was laid aside. There were those who criticized some of the judge's judgments. They were not orthodox. They took no account of precedents. They ignored Blackstone.

"Jack," he said, "I believe I shall have to help you."

"Wha—what—let me go, you mean, Tom?" stammered the prisoner, looking dazed.

"No, indeed," laughed the judge. "That wouldn't help you a bit, Jack. I was just thinking of the time at school, when you stole Billy Bob's marbles. Accused of it, you grew sullen and abusive, ready to fight the whole school. Then Billy Bobs remembered it was near Christmas, and he told you it was all right about the marbles, as you would have won them from him anyway, and forced a whole handful more into your pocket and insisted on taking you over to his house for the Christmas dinner. Billy was a good sort."

"Well, it is Christmas time now, Jack—only three days ahead. And I was just thinking what a good chap you were for a whole year after the Billy Bobs episode—till your father got angry and beat you up."

"Pretty tough life you've had, Jack. I was thinking. Good-for-nothing father and slattern mother and every kind of crooked teaching. Then you were a handsome boy, an exceedingly handsome young man, which is the worst kind of handicap one can start out with. And then, to cap the whole thing, an uncle left you $500 of badly tainted money. That sort of fixed you into a rut, for it riveted your energies into making more in the same way. Not many Billy Bobs have broken through the even tenor of your life, Jack."

"What are you driving at, Tom?" growled the prisoner. "Are you acting like Billy Bobs, or just stringing me?"

"Billy Bobs, but with a thought to the thirty years intervening between Jack the boy and Jack the man. Let me see, you have gathered together, by devious ways, about $50,000."

"No, no, Tom, you're crazy!" ejaculated the prisoner, in a startled voice. "I haven't a thing except maybe a thousand or two from—this last job."

The judge looked at a slip of paper. "Fifty thousand, four hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars," he read, "and it's pretty close to the exact figures, Jack. Maybe you've got some small change in your pockets that was overlooked. And we know in just what banks most of the money is deposited and under what names, and where the rest of it is hidden. We've had you under close surveillance for some time, Jack, and lucky for you, for it shows me how I can be of real service."

The Christmas Shopper

The Word "Xmas"

THE use of "Xmas" to denote Christmas, refuses to die out, although every sort of attack has been made upon it. Newspapers, church societies and dictionaries condemn it, but the makers of Christmas cards and seals go right ahead. It began back in the days of the catacombs when the Greek letter "X" was used to designate the word Christ, it being the initial letter in the Greek spelling of the name.

The usage of the abbreviation became more and more popular in England years afterward when spelling was not the strong point of the average citizen, and "Xmas" was much easier to remember than the word of more letters.

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

By ELEANOR E. KING
(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

TWO young girls were standing in front of one of the counters in a large department store. They were well dressed and gave the appearance of coming from wealthy, refined homes.

"There is no use talking, Christmas is just a bore to me. I know before I open a present that everything I have mentioned as wanting, is here before me."

"Yes, I know," returned her friend. "You never do have much anxiety over what you are going to get for Christmas—or any time," she added.

A rather trim looking woman who had been standing near them, waiting for change, now stepped up.

"Pardon me, but I couldn't help hearing part of your conversation," she handed the girls her card. "I think I am the possessor of the keys to your happiness—at Christmas time—and I just had to tell you."

"My name is Betty Wentworth, and this is my friend Janis Hamilton, Miss Harper. I have heard lots about your work here in the city. I would be only too glad to try the key you speak of and see if it would fit."

"Good. Come to my office at ten tomorrow, and I will tell you more about it."

Betty went. She spent a pleasant hour or so talking with Miss Harper. She thought her suggestions splendid and left fifty dollars to cover the expenses involved.

Instead of sleeping until noon Christmas morning as she usually did, Betty was up and dressed at eight o'clock. She called for the machine and drove to Miss Harper's office.

The room was piled high with baskets containing fruit, canned goods, candy and toys. Necessaries which Miss Harper knew only too well, her poor people needed.

They piled them in the machine. Then under Miss Harper's guidance, they were left at the homes of the most needy in her district.

Betty had the time of her life. She couldn't believe that a little basket full of food and toys could create such joy. The recipients couldn't thank her enough. When they returned to the office, Betty said: "My, Miss Harper, your key surely fit. I have never had such a wonderful Christmas. If people wouldn't think I was ungrateful, I would go right home, take all my presents and give them away, too."

HOW DOES SANTA GET HIS MAIL?

Charles Frederick Wadsworth
(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

I'LL bet old Santa Claus is gettin' letters by the ton. From boys an' girls that's 'fraild he will forget; I don't see how he takes the time to open ev'ry one— There's lots o' toys he hasn't finished yet.

But then, he knows how many kids will look for him to come. An' all the year he's making something new; An' that old shop o' his, I know he makes it hum, An' Mr. Santa Claus, I bet, can hustle, too.

But how does Santa get his mail—that's what I'd like to know— The postman couldn't carry it, I'm sure; It's not so easy goin' miles an' miles an' miles in snow, An' nothin' like a little pleasure tour!

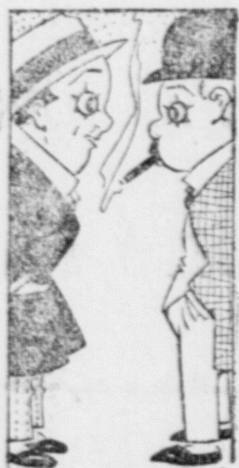

Jes' think of all the hundred thousand million million tots That told old Santa what they want this year; An' even in this town o' ours there's lots an' lots an' lots O' kids that wrote an' mailed their letters here.

There's Johnny Jones that wants a bat, and Jimmy wants a ball, An' Harold Brown an engine that will run; An' Lucy Smith a doll that talks, an' Bess a parasol, An' little Eddie Davis wants a gun.

There's Harry Green whose daddy's store has ev'rythin there is, But Harry thinks that nothin' there will do; A baby sister's what he wants, an' one that's truly his— An' maybe Santa Claus'll bring him two!

Then think o' all the other towns an' cities 'round the earth, An' all the children sendin' Santa word To make each little home a place o' gladness, joy and mirth, Where Christmas noise an' laughter may be heard.

It may be Santa hitches up his reindeer to the sleigh To get the mail that tells him what to do; But anyway, I hope each kid will have on Christmas day The present that he wanted most. Don't you?

LIMITED GENEROSITY

Tightwad told his wife to select her own Christmas present. That was very generous of him. And then, he gave her half a dollar to pay for it.

COOKIE ST. NICKS

Dainties for the Kiddies of the Netherlands.

Little Shoes Are Set Outside of Each Door to Hold the Goodies and the Gifts.

IN SETTLEMENTS where the holidays are affected by the customs of the Netherlands it is not at Christmas time, but on Saint Nicholas Day—Dec. 6—that the children have their jolliest holiday. No stockings are hung, but little shoes are set outside each door for goodies and for gifts. The most important gift is the image of the good Saint Nick himself. It is generally hung to the door knob.

It is no plaster model or stuffed doll affair—this Saint Nicholas—but a very large cookie dough representation, a sweet brown molasses mixture. Wooden moulds used to stamp out these special and glorified gingerbread men are used but once a year, and the bakers take great pride in making them as elaborate and realistic as possible. Rows of hazel nuts often button up the great coat, and sometimes a border of trimming is set round the coat with raisins.

The Saint Nicks are eaten, but generally not until the very last. There are other Holland cookies quite as necessary for the gift shoe of a well-treated baby. Letters and lace cookies are the most important. Letters might be described as a sort of rich pastry tubing filled with the richest possible fruit and nut mixture, which nearly always, in the good old days, was flavored with a generous dash of brandy. This tubing is shaped into the form of capital letters, and every child expects to find at least the initial of his given name in the shoe. More fortunate children get their entire set of initials, and pampered darlings get their whole names.

The lace cookies seem to serve as a substitute for candy in the regular and standard Dutch baby's Saint Nicholas shoe. They are really not cookies at all, but rather a nut butter-scotch pattie made very thin and transparent. This transparency is the thing that gives them their name—lace cookie.

The First Christmas Cards.

Christmas cards printed for sale were first struck off in 1847. The first year, not more than 1,000 were sold. Today, millions are used.

THE JUDGES

You can find ways enough, and each one you meet will open others.

"And after this week, Jack, you will expend $1,000 each month in such work, until the whole is gone. It will take you nearly four years. We will allow you $20 from it each week for your personal needs—no more. The very last $500—the dirty $500 left by your uncle and which may have started you into that way of money getting, you will give to some poor woman in memory of your wife. Because it is bad money, it should expiate itself in good work."

The prisoner had been straightening up. There was sullen defiance in his eyes.

"Suppose I don't do it to the letter, judge?" he queried. "Suppose I save out some? You never could know. It's too much to ask me to give up every cent. How could I live afterwards?"

"There is the suspended twenty years' sentence, Jack," significantly. "If you deviate a hair's breadth from this work the sentence will be enforced. It would take the rest of your life, and the money is not worth a thought in comparison. Besides, you must be purged of the money for your own good. As to not knowing, we shall keep close watch of all your money. If you draw more, or take more than the sum allowed each month, the original sentence will go into effect."

I extend the clemency only a month at a time. At the end of each month you must bring me a report of your work, a record in detail, and I will extend the clemency another month. If you fail to appear or send a satisfactory reason why, an officer will be after you within twenty-four hours. It is the best way I can think of helping you, Jack, a Billy Bobs way, with the thirty years' hardening that must be broken through. I have faith that four years of such philanthropic work will not be without result. After the money is all gone, every dollar, come to me and I will give you steady employment at a living salary. You used to be exceptionally good at figures in school, and had a quick mind. All you need is to get the mind to working along in a straight line, Jack. Now you may go and draw the first $1,000 to be ready to commence work."

He nodded to an officer, who led the scowling, half-dazed prisoner to the door of the courtroom, and to another for the next case to be brought in.

Early Christmas Morning

RULETIDE
AND CUPID

"WITH Christmas there comes to every detached man a strange, insistent urge to fulfill the promise to realize the purpose for which he is born, to become the head of a house, a home, a family," writes Anna Steese Richardson in McCall's. "He feels a gripping desire to stand first in someone's life."

"He may be able to withstand the lure of a lovely face, as close to his as the modern dance demands. He may steel his heart, pulse and purse to a provocative face above a one-piece bathing suit. But when the corner grocer banks his sidewalk with trees; when the florist ties crimson ribbon on crackling holly; when happy, wide-awake children overflow toy-shops, even a confirmed bachelor wants a woman of his own, a wife."

"And in this hour of weakened defenses lies the marriageable woman's great opportunity."

"By the term 'marriageable woman' I mean any woman between sixteen and sixty!"

"Just as Easter week and the first fortnight of June bring long lines to license clerks and marrying parsons, so do certain dates represent what we might call the open season for bagging husbands."

"Christmas is one of them."

"Now some women, especially those past thirty, are going to pause right here, in a state of virtuous horror."

"No 'nice' woman stalks a man, and there can be no happiness in marriage unless the man, and not the woman, has been the pursuer!"

"Theoretically, the above statements are sound. Practically they are relics of the Victorian age. The shame of pursuing a man lies not in the object but in the methods used. For man wants to be pursued and landed by painless and invisible methods. He wants to marry. He recognizes that certain privileges and dignities can be acquired through marriage only. These include running a lawn-mower over his own grass, telling some outwardly meek woman that if he runs his business as she runs her house they'd starve to death, and repeating to his suffering clerks the latest clever sayings of 'that kid of ours.'"

FILLING THE STOCKING

For little children everywhere
A joyous season still we make;
We bring our precious gifts to them,
Even for the dear child Jesus' sake.
—Phoebe Cary.

WHERE there are children the Christmas stocking should never be forgotten. Nothing can take the place of it, for nothing else arouses quite so much speculation and pleasurable anticipation as what Santa Claus will put into that homely article.

The general distribution of gifts may well take place after breakfast is out of the way; but no child can be expected to wait very long for the "feel" of something old Santa has left. If all his gifts are given immediately on waking, excitement will run high, and dressing and breakfast will be gone through with great difficulty. Also, a considerable quantity of candy and nuts will have vanished before the morning meal is served, and with them will have disappeared all signs of an appetite.

As a means of avoiding these conditions the Christmas stocking serves a good purpose. Carefully filled, it will satisfy the child's longing for "Christmas the first thing in the morning," will give him a taste of Christmas goodies without destroying his appetite for breakfast, and will leave sufficient expectancy concerning the other things coming so that he will readily submit to being properly bathed and dressed.

An orange for the toe of the stocking, some especially-desired toy which will prove of untold interest, some article of dress in which he can "parade around," a handful of pop-corn, a small box of animal crackers and a stick or cane of pure sugar candy should make a stocking sufficiently bulging to please any child. All the food it contains can be consumed without continual warnings of "Don't eat too much now," or "Better save the rest until breakfast." The toy and the other gift will hold the child's interest until every one is assembled for the big distribution, which need not be hurried.—Margaret Bartlett in Farm Journal.

VISION

LAST night I crept across the snow
Where only tracking rabbits go,
And there I waited, quite alone
Until the Christmas radiance shone.

At midnight twenty angels came,
Each white and shining like a flame,
At midnight twenty angels sang,
The stars swung out like bells, and rang.

They lifted me across the hill,
They bore me in their arms until
A greater glory greeted them,
It was the town of Bethlehem.

And gently, then, they set me down,
All worshipping that holy town,
And gently, then, they bade me raise
My head to worship and to praise.

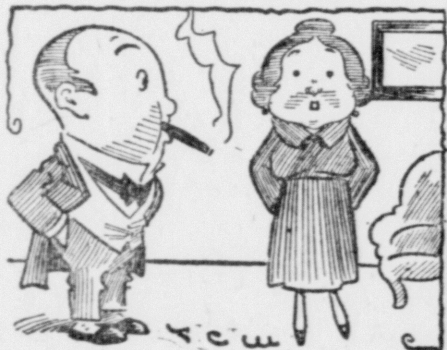

And gently, then, the Christ smiled down,
Ah, there was glory in that town!
It was as if the world were new,
And glistening in purity.

There, in that vault of crystal blue,
It was as if the world were new,
And myriad angels, file on file,
Gloried in the Christ-child's smile.

It was so beautiful to see,
Such glory for a child like me,
So beautiful, it does not seem
It could have been a Christmas dream!
—John Farrar, in The World Magazine.

FRED HAMMER, Mgr.

IN QUEST of SANTA ON SKIS

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.
HERE were three things that Ralph thoroughly enjoyed—the West, skiing and adventure. He and three other fellows about his age, ranging from nine to twelve had been skiing all morning.

The whole surrounding country was mountainous and the boys had no trouble finding places to ski.

"Well, fellows," said Ralph, poised for action at the top of the hill, "I'm off. Here begins my great quest for Santa Claus" and he made a low bow, scrapping the snow with his cap. "So long," and he was gone.

"Good luck," called the fellows.
He seemed to go on and on at a remarkable speed after he reached the bottom. The boys stood and watched him skim over the snow out of sight.

Ralph went on for two or three miles this way. Then he came to a wooded strip. His ruddy cheeks glowed with delight, as he thought of the adventures he might have here.

The farther into the forest he got,
the darker it grew, until finally Ralph couldn't see his hand before his face. There was only one thing he knew of to do—

feel his way out.

That was a slow
process, but Ralph thought any way out of this dark hole
would suit him.

In his search for a way out, he found a place
where the snow
seemed to go almost straight up.

It occurred to him that this might be the side of a mountain, and if he could get up high enough he would come to daylight.

He slid down several times, got badly scratched on branches, but that didn't bother him in the least. He was determined to get out of the forest.

The mountain proved to be quite high and after an hour or so of climbing
Ralph sat down to rest in the snow.

As he rested, he took a good look at what was before him. What was that up on the top? Why, it looked like a hut, sure enough—a place where he could rest, get something to eat and get warm.

Ralph didn't rest long, he wanted to get to the hut. It was a queer little place, he found upon reaching it. It looked as though a puff of wind would be enough to blow it over.

Ralph knocked at the door very gently for fear of knocking the house down. The door opened, but Ralph started back with surprise, for the object before him had a bull's head and horns, and a man's body, cloven hoofs and a long tail.

"Well, my boy," said the creature,
"what are you here for? Did you come to help me? I usually have some boys come about Christmas time." Ralph gave a shudder. So this was his beloved Santa Claus, who looked and talked like this. Why hadn't someone told him?

"Who are you?" stammered Ralph, getting up his courage. "Are you Santa Claus?"

The creature burst out laughing. It sounded like thunder. He held his sides and rocked
with laughter.

Ralph didn't know what to do
now—was he going to laugh himself to death? Well he rather hoped he would.

Then the creature finally composed himself to say, "No! but I follow up Santa
with my helpers.

We break up the toys for the children that they get for Christmas. You stay here tonight, with me and then go along with us. It's great sport breaking up toys."

"No, I can't stay," said Ralph, backing away. "I am in quest of Santa Claus."

The beast doubled up with laughter again. Ralph thought this an opportune time to make his getaway, so he put on his skis and started down the mountain. Dangerous? Anything was better than staying with that beast.

Ralph seemed to be coming to a wall. He jumped, landed squarely and skipped along the snow for a mile or more. Looking up (he hadn't had time to do this before), he beheld in front of him a great castle, covered with turrets and towers.

"Now, what have I gotten into?"
said Ralph, aloud. He knocked at the door and was admitted by two queer-looking fairies.

"Who are you, and who lives here?"
queried Ralph. "Do you go around breaking up toys, too?"

Had a Bull's Head
and Horns.

Reaches Santa Claus' Castle.

You Bet Santa Was Here

Believing In Santa

THE sons and daughters of men are of two classes—not the rich or the poor, not the young or the old, no liberals or conservatives, nor even Aristotelians or Platonists, but those who believe in Santa Claus and those who do not.

Children are of the first and more glorious family. Hence they grow; hence they burst with life. They believe, and so have faith, that good comes riding out of the air, with jingling bells and prancing reindeer, its pack crammed with gifts, its round and smiling coachman breathing benevolence and cheeriness and hastening to fulfill every wish that is dreamed on dented pillow. Alas! when doubt creeps in, when the eyes and ears of the spirit no longer see or hear and demand comes for physical evidence, then all the high faculties wither and pass away.

The walls of the prison house tend to close around the growing child. He credits the slander that there is no Santa Claus. Poison enters into him and he degenerates into an animal that merely touches or tastes. Thrice blessed are they who are able to keep an imagination green and lusty and to subdue or drive away all forces that would throttle it. The rites of Christmas, after all, are mainly for the old folks, their observance representing the instinct to keep alive the divine spark of youth. A little one that no longer petitions good St. Nick is a sad spectacle; even sadder is the man or woman to whom his myth has lost its savor. To such when the sun goes down and the west fades the heavens fill with no shining stars.

The period through which mankind has passed has been marked by a duel between those who hope and those who despair—between those who believe in Santa Claus and those who do not. Let us rejoice that the quivering balance is now definitely inclining to the better side. Be young, be forever young—never has the old text been more vindicated than in these days.

Unclogged with prudence and limp-ing with no rheumatism, youth, as the old text says, "plunged forward through four terrible years, furnishing new reasons for respecting humanity. Then came the sere and yellow leaf of the stay-at-homes. They sought to turn off the fountains of faith. But, happily, their grip is loosening and the sweet waters flow again. Whether your youngster hangs up stockings or not, don't yourself, Mr. or Mrs. Grown-up, lose your own credulity.—New York Tribune.

The Christmas Tree

MAKE extra stockings for the tree from bits of old window curtains, net, or even mosquito netting. Fill them with candies, popcorn, or nuts. They may be cut over baby's stocking as a pattern and the children will enjoy overhand stitching the edges with bits of yarn.

Strings of popcorn or cranberries make gay festoons for the tree and afford occupation for little folks who will "get under foot" at this busy season.

Funny little dolls may be made from round-headed clothespins. Wind about four thicknesses of crepe paper around the pin for petticoats. Make a waist of the crepe paper, tying a baby ribbon around the "waist" for a sash. White paper bound over the top of the peg forms the face, over which another piece is drawn to form bonnet.

A few yards of tinsel cut into six or eight-inch lengths may be combined with the smaller penny ornaments to make elaborate decorations that sell for more.

Small boxes from the stores may be covered with Christmas paper, have two holes punched in them and ribbon handles fastened to them. These boxes filled with candies help make the tree festive.—Grit.

The Big Old House in the Little Old Town

WELL, Christmas is coming, and all the day long my thoughts have been running away.

With an echoing laugh and the lit of a song
To an old-fashioned Christmas day—
To a big old house in a little old town,
Where you and the others and I
Made merry together, with never a frown
And never a thought of a sign.

The big old house in the little old town,
Oh, how it would rock with our mirth,
And gather us gladly and cuddle us down,
The homeliest place on the earth.
It wasn't upholstered in tapestries rare,
(I can see the old window-seat yet)
It may have been shabby a bit here and there—
Well, those are the things we forget.

But, oh! the mysterious secrets it knew,
That old house, when Christmas was coming,
And the laughter and fun ringing through it and through,
And the voices and somebody humming;
And the hour when around the piano we'd meet.

Yes, even in busy December
For an old Christmas hymn with its harmony sweet—
Ah, those are the things we remember.

And then you recall how the midnight train
Would bring back a sister or brothers,
To the big old house in the little old town,
Where Christmas meant home and the others,
And the old house was looking its holiday best,
And the table all spread for the feast;
With an extra chair set for the holiday guest,
Some stranger, "one of the least."

The big old house in the little old town—
They tell me the years are unkind,
It looks bare and neglected, its fence
tumbles down,
Since we scattered and left it behind.
No, I haven't been back; I would rather recall

The days of its glory gone by,
When we fled to its arms for the best day
of all,
You and the others and I.
—Grace Strickler Dawson, in Kansas City Star.

BURNING THE YULE LOG

THE name given by the ancient Goths and Saxons to the festival of the winter solstice was Yule, or Yule. The latter term is still reserved by the Scotch.

The burning of the Yule log, known by other names in continental Europe, was an ancient Christmas ceremony descending from the Scandinavians, who at their feast of Yule used to kindle huge bonfires in honor of their god Thor. Similar bonfires were kindled in Europe and elsewhere at the summer solstice.

The English ceremony of bringing in and burning the Yule log on Christmas eve, which still has its local survivals, was full of picturesque detail. The log was a massive piece of wood, frequently the rugged and grotesquely marked root of an oak.

It was drawn in triumph from its resting place amid shouts and laughter, every wayfarer doffing his hat as it passed. On its entrance into the baronial halls, the minstrels hailed it with song and music, or in the absence of the minstrels each member of the family sat upon it in turn and sang a Yule song.

hoping that he will be able to fill most of the baskets with foodstuff that is donated.

The need for many baskets has been found. A number of homes visited show conditions that few would believe existed in Rushville. In one home in particular, where the wife is past sixty years old and suffering with paralysis, and the husband is unable to work because of being compelled to care for her, the suffering is beyond description. The aged couple are living in a shack built mostly of old boxes. There are two small rooms, giving barely enough space for them to sit down. They are dependent entirely on charity, but it is the aim of this fund to give them at least one happy day before they leave this world of sorrow.

An error of $4.00 in addition yesterday made the total appear smaller than it really was. It should have been $169.36, but it appeared in the paper as $165.36.

ANNUAL INSTITUTE
IS SET FOR JAN. 2

Program And Premium List Being Completed And Promise Rare Treat For Posey Township

$235 IN PRIZES RAISED

H. M. Widney And Mrs. Roberts, Both Have Practical Knowledge Of Farming, Will Be Speakers

The annual Posey Township Farmers' Institute is to be held in the Christian church at Arlington Jan. 2, 1923.

The program and premium list are nearing completion and both are promising a rare treat for the people of that community.

Mrs. Roberts comes very highly recommended by Purdue University as a resourceful and practical farm woman, living on a farm, putting into practice and experimenting with her theories. At present she is keeping an egg production record for Purdue from her own flock, as her chief interest lies in working out practical problems with poultry.

For several years H. M. Widney has rendered effective service as a farmer's institute speaker. His early life was spent on the farm. When twenty-one years of age he entered the lumber trade in which he engaged for a number of years. He then sold the lumber business and purchased the old Widney homestead on an easy payment plan. As the farm was then depleted in fertility and production, he had to meet the problems of resorting the productiveness of the land and pay off the debt. By means of drainage and the use of soiling crops, barn yard manure and commercial fertilizer, he has succeeded. He planted on this farm an orchard of thirty acres which is now bearing fruit and is an acknowledged success as well as a blessing to that portion of the state where it is located.

Mr. Widney now owns, not only the old homestead, but one of the neighboring farms making a total of 237 acres. He owns a home in St. Joe, but for the last seven years he has resided and worked on the farm. His crops are apples, corn, wheat, oats, barley, alfalfa, clover and soybeans.

As of last year, an attempt is being made to have an evening session preceding the regular institute program. The speakers' name and subject will be announced later.

The sum of $235.00 in merchandise and cash has been pledged with which to finance the premium list. The merchants of Arlington and Rushville, especially the latter, contributed very freely and gladly, for which the institute committee desires to extend its heartfelt thanks and appreciation.

Premiums are to be awarded on the following:

Ten ears and single ear, any color, for local farmers; ten ears and single ear, any color, open to the county; ten ears and single ear, any color, for boys enrolled in Posey township schools; best peck of home grown potatoes, for local farmers; and a boys corn judging contest.

The womens department awards are to be given on cakes, bread, butter, and best dozen of eggs. Also awards are to be offered on work from the Home Economics and Art classes.

Special efforts are being made to interest the boys in the corn judging contest. The county agent, D. D. Ball, is to visit the Arlington school and lecture on matters pertaining to seed corn. Also A. J. Reddick and W. O. Swain, local producers of fancy corn, and licensed judges of ability, are to visit the school instructing and demonstrating to the boys just how to select a seed ear, and how to score it. Mr. Reddick will have personal charge of the judging contest.

W. O. Swain will judge the corn in all classes. Spirited competition is expected.

A big pitch-in dinner will be held in the church basement at the noon hour.

The entire program and premium list are to be published in the near future.

American Farm Bureau Federation Gives Wool Growers Real Service

As a result of a meeting of wool growers called by President Howard of the American Farm Bureau Federation in the fall of 1920 for the purpose of considering improved methods of marketing wool, a permanent marketing committee was named, consisting of James N. McBride, Lansing, Mich.; E. L. Moody, Rushville, New York; F. L. Fitch, Linneus, Mo.; V. G. Warner, Bloomfield, Iowa; and J. E. Boog-Scott, Coleman, Texas.

This committee recommended that the American Farm Bureau Federation appoint a director to look after the wool marketing problems of the country in co-ordination the various wool pools. On February 1, 1921, C. J. Fawcett took over the department, dividing his time equally between the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Wool Warehouse and Storage Company, a grower's selling agency located in Chicago, which has pioneered in the co-operative method of marketing wool.

Since the creation of the department, sixteen organization meetings have been held in sixteen states, and eighteen states used the wool pool in marketing the 1921 clip, or pooled such portions of the state's production as was controlled by their organization. The fundamental principle underlying the direct from the grower to the consumer method of marketing is to make use of established farm bureaus for collecting products and shipping to concentration points economically located. Logical concentration points which have been recommended are Chicago, Ill.; Houston, Texas; Columbus, Ohio; Wheeling, West Va.; Lansing, Mich.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Portland, Ore. These concentration points are to be in charge of efficient sales agencies with well established reputations in the wool trade, who are completely divorced from buying or speculating in wool.

Continuing in absolute control of the wool until actually sold directly to the mills and thus saving a greater portion of the consumer's dollar for the grower, eighteen states are marketing co-operatively 27,093,000 pounds of wool from eight concentration points. More than 40,000,000 pounds of wool have been pooled altogether.

One of the main obstacles has been that wool growers have not had the proper support of bankers and the Federal Reserve System in financing their wool for long-time holding. Wool is sheared from the sheep in a very short time, but is marketed to mill consumption throughout the whole year; therefore it must be concentrated in large graded lines, as recognized by the American woolen mills, which requires warehousing facilities on a broad scale.

In a legislative way, the various pool grower's organizations are using the office of the American Farm Bureau Federation as an avenue through which to work and unify their efforts in securing legislation that will protect their best interests, such as Truth-in-Fabric and permanent tariff. As a result of the Emergency Tariff, importations of foreign wool have decreased from an average of 45,000,000 pounds a month, from January, 1921, to May 27, 1921, to about 12,000,000 pounds per month; a decrease of about 75 per cent in importations, while the consumption of domestic wool has increased approximately 100 per cent over the same period in 1920.

MOTHER! BREAK CHILD'S COLD

Hurry! Move Little Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Whatever else you give your child to relieve a bad cold, sore throat or congestion, be sure to first open the little one's bowels with "California Fig Syrup" to get rid of the poisons and waste which are causing the cold and congestion. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works the constipation poison, sour bile and waste right out. Even if you call your family physician he will praise you for having given "California Fig Syrup" as the laxative because it never fails, never cramps or overacts, and even sick children love its pleasant taste. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

DESERTED VILLAGES CONFRONT THE TURKS

Eastern Thrace Resembles An Enchanted Country Which Suddenly Lost its Inhabitants

TURK POPULATION REMAINS

By EDWARD J. BING
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
Adrianople (By Mail to United Press)—Eastern Thrace resembles an enchanted country which, by a magic word from some sinister chief of the underworld, suddenly lost its inhabitants while their dwellings were spared to serve as such witnesses of a once flourishing life which is now but a memory of the past.

Here and there a burning village, flaming like a huge torch, recalls with particular vigor the century old hatred and passion which divided the population for this unfortunate country into two hostile camps. The landscape stretching along both sides of the moving train is dotted with completely deserted villages. The Turkish population, naturally, remains in the country, beflagging their homes in the expectancy of the arrival of the Turkish nationalise gendarmerie.

As for the Greek civilians, they carried out an exodus the like of which is rare in World history. The assurances of the Allied and Turkish authorities that the Greek population may safely stay in the country, are of no avail. The unfortunate refugees remember the systematic destruction of Western Asia Minor.

When Christmas Comes

WHEN December snows appear, when the nights are crisp and clear, chilly do the north winds blow and we walk on crunchy snow, gazing at a wintry moon—Christmas time is coming soon!

When the stores are trimmed in green with polusettias in between, on the shelves are books and toys, dolls and drums for girls and boys; tinkling sounds the glockenspiel and you hear sweet laughter's peal, or the tin horns' trumpet blast—Christmas time is coming fast!

When the house smells—oh, so good, mother's cooking wondrous food, glorious odors floating by, spice and plums are stirred in pie. In the morning when you wake—sniff the air—that's chocolate cake! Ring, ring, ring! the door bell's chime, postman says: "It's Christmas time!"

When you shop and sew and hurry, loving all the bustle. Scurry quick for hiding place lest she guess it from your face that this gussy box contains mother's gift you've made with pains. When you've hickory nuts to crack, trips to make to town and back, Yuletide crinkles in the air—Merry Christmas everywhere!

Then at length comes Christmas eve, Mother mine can you believe that tomorrow is the time, happy cause of all my rhyme? Wreaths and greens and stockings hung, answering bell that's rung and rung. Off to bed—a little sleep—seems a moment, then you peep, fling the covers quick away. Yes! at last it's Christmas Day!—Grit.

A HINT TO MEN

WHEN she tells you she doesn't want you to bother about giving her a Christmas present don't pay any attention. You know yourself how hurt you would be if she didn't get you one of those ties about which you could boast to your men friends that "you had to wear it once just so the little girl's feelings wouldn't be hurt." And you know, and they know, that you want to let the world know that the "little girl" struggled with the other women to get to the center of the tie counter so she could pick out something for you in her sweet and loving ignorance.

The Man of The Hour

Christmas in the Country

by Martha B. Thomas

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

IF YOU are fortunate enough to live in the country, then you are all right. If you are unfortunate enough to live in the city, then you'll have to pretend for a little while that you are in the country. There is nothing to equal it at Christmas-time. Let me tell you about it.

A week before Christmas you scurry around and find as many big bags as you can—burlap bags that probably came filled with grain. Then you buckle up your arctics, draw on your mittens, wind a muffler around your throat, make sure your ears are protected, and start for the woods. Under the snow are the green-fingers of ground pine, or crow's foot. Yards and yards of it come up when you pull. It looks as fresh and contented as though it grew in a comfortable conservatory, instead of cuddling under a frozen blanket. You stuff great quantities of this delightful Christmas trimming into the bags, and you are sure that the woods in winter are much superior than at any other time. Then you come home with your fragrant bags slung over your shoulders and the most amazing appetite. You probably eat a pile of pancakes and maple sirup high as a pagoda!

Then think of the string, the scissors, the aprons and the fun of making wreaths! The whole family devotes an entire afternoon to it, and get into friendly squabbles about the length, breadth and thickness of their respective products. Everyone is perfectly sure that none can equal his!

And we have said nothing at all about driving four miles back in the hills to buy the largest turkey that ever graced a platter; and how there was no room for anybody else when the prodigious bird was landed in the wagon, and how the head of the kitchen declared she never could get him in the oven, but seemed very pleased at his noble appearance!

And pies! Bless us, the PIES! Not your thin, anaemic characters, but thick, round succulent beauties that make your nose sniff as far as the front of the house. I have known the noses of small boys to become almost permanently wrinkled from the constant exercise thus stimulated by the aroma of pumpkin pies. It is a dangerous period, this time of cooking and baking, if you are accustomed to maintaining a solemn expression! I warn you to keep away from country houses if you are fond of keeping your countenance intact! Then, of course, a Christmas tree has to be found. This is even more fun than going after greens. A rope, an ax with a responsible edge that understands the duty required of it, and as many people as you can muster to take part in the expedition. Such laughing, such stumbling, such falling down of persons who forget that feet need to be wary of running vines and dead briars, such mirth over the young man who unwittingly winds himself up in a bramble bush and has to be uncoiled. And best of all, the terrible arguments about selecting the right tree. There is no fun like this.

And if on Christmas day you don't wish for a stomach as big as a blimp, then you are not the person I thought you!

Christmas in the country? Well... rather!

Dressing.

Three-quarters cup sugar, ¼ cup pineapple juice, juice of one lemon, 1 heaping teaspoonful flour, 2 eggs, well beaten. Cook all together until it thickens. When cool and ready to serve add ½ pint of whipped cream and spread on top of salad which has been placed on lettuce leaves.

Dainties for the Kiddies of the Netherlands.

Little Shoes Are Set Outside of Each Door to Hold the Goodies and the Gifts.

IN SETTLEMENTS where the holidays are affected by the customs of the Netherlands it is not at Christmas time, but on Saint Nicholas Day—Dec. 6—that the children have their jolliest holiday. No stockings are hung, but little shoes are set outside each door for goodies and for gifts. The most important gift is the image of the good Saint Nick himself. It is generally hung to the door knob.

It is no plaster model or stuffed doll affair—this Saint Nicholas—but a very large cookie dough representation, a sweet brown molasses mixture. Wooden moulds used to stamp out these special and glorified gingerbread men are used but once a year, and the bakers take great pride in making them as elaborate and realistic as possible. Rows of hazel nuts often button up the great coat, and sometimes a border of trimming is set round the coat with raisins.

The Saint Nicks are eaten, but generally not until the very last. There are other Holland cookies quite as necessary for the gift shoe of a well-treated baby. Letters and lace cookies are the most important. Letters might be described as a sort of rich pastry tubing filled with the richest possible fruit and nut mixture, which nearly always, in the good old days, was flavored with a generous dash of brandy. This tubing is shaped into the form of capital letters, and every child expects to find at least the initial of his given name in the shoe. More fortunate children get their entire set of initials, and pampered darlings get their whole names.

The lace cookies seem to serve as a substitute for candy in the regular and standard Dutch baby's Saint Nicholas shoe. They are really not cookies at all, but rather a nut butterscotch pattie made very thin and transparent. This transparency is the thing that gives them their name—lace cookie.

THE JUDGES

 You can find ways enough, and each one you meet will open others.

"And after this week, Jack, you will expend $1,000 each month in such work, until the whole is gone. It will take you nearly four years. We will allow you $20 from it each week for your personal needs—no more. The very last $300—the dirty $300 left by your uncle and which may have started you into that way of money getting, you will give to some poor woman in memory of your wife. Because it is bad money, it should expiate itself in good work."

The prisoner had been straightening up. There was sullen defiance in his eyes.

"Suppose I don't do it to the letter, Judge?" he queried. "Suppose I save out some? You never could know. It's too much to ask me to give up every cent. How could I live afterwards?"

"There is the suspended twenty years' sentence, Jack," significantly. "If you deviate a hair's breadth from this work the sentence will be enforced. It would take the rest of your life, and the money is not worth a thought in comparison. Besides, you must be purged of the money for your own good. As to not knowing, we shall keep close watch of all your money. If you draw more, or take more than the sum allowed each month, the original sentence will go into effect."

I extend the clemency only a month at a time. At the end of each month you must bring me a report of your work, a record in detail, and I will extend the clemency another month. If you fail to appear or send a satisfactory reason why, an officer will be after you within twenty-four hours. It is the best way I can think of helping you, Jack, a Billy Bobs way, with the thirty years' hardening that must be broken through. I have faith that four years of such philanthropic work will not be without result. After the money is all gone, every dollar, come to me and I will give you steady employment at a living salary. You used to be exceptionally good at figures in school, and had a quick mind. All you need is to get the mind to working along in a straight line, Jack. Now you may go and draw the first $1,000 to be ready to commence work."

He nodded to an officer, who led the scowling, half-dazed prisoner to the door of the courtroom, and to another for the next case to be brought in.
